The Atlantic Telegraph.

The failure of the Atlantic Cable is the prominent topic of the Press. The Times' City Article of Wednesday, the 8th inst., says:

"Nothing fresh has transpired with regard to the Atlantic Telegraph. There is still communication through the whole length of the cable, but only of the faintest and most uncertain kind. A prevalent opinion seems to be that the defect is not in the instruments, but that the line has received some injury from abrasion on the coast, which will admit of speedy repair. The nominal quotations of the shares on Tuesday was £450 to £550."

The Times of Thursday, the 9th inst., says: "The condition of the Atlantic telegraph is unaltered. Signals continue to be received, but they are too uncertain and faint to be intelligible. Occasionally an entire word is given, but never anything approaching to a sentence. The experiments made still lead to the belief that the injury is near the coast—probably within two or three miles. The strong portion of the cable manufactured expressly for the shore has now been shipped from Plymouth for Valentia, and will be substituted immediately on its arrival in place of the ordinary wire, which, however well adapted for undisturbed depths, is totally inadequate to resist the liability to accident on a rocky coast. Transactions in the shares have taken place to-day at £485 and £500, the latter being the closing quotation.

Up to the present time no communication of any kind, telegraphic or otherwise, has been received at the office of the Atlantic Telegraph Company, as to the operations supposed to be going on at Valentia to ascertain the point of interruption of the electric signals, since the message from Mr. Saward, the Secretary of the Company, dated from that place on Saturday, and which appeared in our impression of Monday. The directors, accompanied by Mr. Saward and several practical electricians, are still at Valentia; but at present the officials of the Company left in London are without information as to what has been done there to discover the place of stoppage or the result. The permanent shore end of the cable intended for the Valentia end, and which is much stronger and thicker than the rest, and calculated to resist the greater amount of risk to which it is exposed as it approaches the landing-place, is now being embarked at Plymouth, and will be conveyed to its destination without delay. The impression still obtains among the Company's servants that the point of interruption is at no great distance from the Valentia termination, and this derives confirmation from the letter of Mr. Whitehouse, which appeared in this journal."

The Times of Friday says:

Nothing further transpired to-day regarding the Atlantic telegraph, and it is not expected that the nature of the defect will be ascertained until the shore portion of the cable will be taken up, to be replaced by the new and solid line now on its way from Plymouth, and which was alone intended for that position.

In the same paper, upon the same day, we find the following particulars in regard to the shipment of the shore ends from Keyham. It is contained in a dispatch dated at Plymouth, Sept. 8:

"The screw steamship Bilboa, 312 tons register, is now in Hamoaze, alongside the sea-wall of the Keyham steam-yard, for the purpose of receiving the Valentia end of the Atlantic Telegraph cable. She is commanded by Captain Joseph Kavanaugh, a gentleman who has had some experience in the submersion of telegraphic wires. This portion of the cable is 1⅛ inches diameter, about 14 or 15 miles long, and weighs eight tons to the mile. The Atlantic wire weighs one ton to the mile. In consequence of the necessity of retaining the tidal basin for the use of the Himalaya and other Government steamships refitting, the Bilboa could not go near the store in the old powder magazine, and the shore end has, in the absence of bobbins, to be carried by hand the whole distance, a quarter of a mile, to the wharf. Although 100 men are employed, the operation is slow. The stowage in the ship's hold will probably occupy three days. Mr. Clifford, who went out in the Niagara last year, and in the Agamemnon this year, has charge of the arrangements. Had there been no failure in the working of the Atlantic wire, it is understood that the Bilboa would have proceeded to Valentia direct, and have under-run the cable until the point of connection was reached, when a very short interruption in the transmission of messages would have occurred. Now it is probable that the Bilboa will proceed to the point of junction, 10 miles from the beach, and grapple for the wire. The sea there is about 100 fathoms deep, and the time which may be occupied in securing the cable will vary from two or three days to as many weeks. In October last three weeks were necessarily consumed in recovering the shore end laid by the Niagara; in fine weather it might have been effected in three days. The same grappling apparatus will be used now as then. In paying out the shore end from the Bilboa, a strong machine, a plain drum and a breakwheel are all that will be used. As the depth of water at Newfoundland increases suddenly after leaving the beach, the shore end there is only two miles long. Being so heavy, its recovery from a great depth would be an operation of some difficulty; besides which, ships' anchors are not likely to injure the wire in very deep water.

Some remarks having been made in relation to the delay in attaching the shore end, it is stated that the executive did not find themselves justified in chartering a ship or incurring other expenses contingent on the successful laying of the Atlantic cable until that success was realized. The thin wire run ashore at Valentia was intended only for temporary use, and immediately it was laid Mr. Bright and his colleagues adopted the most energetic and prompt measures for the substitution of the permanent shore end. The shore end, laid in August, 1857, and recovered the following October, and which has been ever since at Keyham, was tested on Tuesday last by the electric machine, and found perfect."

A subsequent dispatch, dated the 9th, says: "Instructions have unexpectedly arrived here from Ireland for suspending the embarkation of the Valentia shore-end of the Atlantic Cable on board the steemship Bilboa, and she is removed from Keyham-wharf to the stream in Hamoaze."

Lieutenant Francis Higginson, R. N., writes to the Daily News: "The telegraph cable was broken in the attempt to submerge it on the 29th of July last, at 7¾ P. M., between the Agamemnon and Niagara, when electrical signals immediately and finally ceased; nor were the broken ends of the cable ever afterwards recovered or respliced? It is therefore needless to say that no message of any kind whatever, public or private, ever could have been actually passed along the telegraph wire rope between Ireland and Newfoundland, because to lay such a wire rope down in the manner attempted is an utter physical impossibility, as I have throughout stated, and practically demonstrated. Nor, if a wire could have been so laid, would the electric spark have passed one-half the distance, say 1,000 miles, without an auxiliary conductor annexed to the cable, or its being assisted by the inductive influence afforded when parts of the wire lie coiled, one touching the other in actual contact: from both which causes I always knew this undertaking had not been accomplished, whatever was professed.

I have nothing now to do with motives, but am at any time prepared to produce evidence on oath by eye-witnesses to substantiate the facts herein defined, and until that can be done, request you will thus disabuse the public of a dangerous delusion into which it has been generally and unavoidably misled; it being almost impossible to credit the extent to which individual oppression and popular deception have been carried."

A correspondent of the Post takes up the gauntlet in defence of Mr. Whitehouse: giving additional particulars of the difficulties at the Valentia end:

"It became evident that the cable had become defective, and was rapidly getting worse. The electrician and his assistants were the only persons at Valentia, who at once telegraphed the fact to the directors in London, and, at the same time, set himself earnestly to work to discover the cause; and after repeated tests and experiments, he came to the conclusion that it was a want of insulation in the cable close to Valentia, and he at once telegraphed to the Directors to the effect: 'There is earth near Valentia; it would be best to under-run the cable, and repair or cut away the bad part.'

The reply which the electrician received was to the following effect:

'We (that is, one banker and two merchants) don't believe it is earth, and will not allow you, or any one else, to touch the cable.'

But the want of insulation had become so bad that the signals had ceased altogether through the cable, and he again telegraphed to the directors the fact, and likewise, 'That repeated tests confirmed his previous opinion, and something must be done at once.' The reply he received was, that he knew nothing about it; and, if he dared to touch the cable he should do so on his own responsibility.

In this emergency, when left to himself at Valentia, when the signal had entirely ceased to pass through the cable, and the instruments-room was closed to strangers, that no news of the stoppage might reach London, knowing that Great Britain and the whole of Europe were anxiously looking for the news that the reply of the President to Her Majesty had been received, Mr. Whitehouse nobly took the responsibility of repairing the cable. He brought Mr. Canning, the engineer, from Dublin; three days and a night were spent in undermining the cable close to Valentia, and the results were what he had predicted. Where the Agamemnon anchored were found no less than five kinks in the cable. These were at once temporarily repaired, to admit of Her Majesty's message being completed, (for the signal had ceased when there had only been a portion of it forwarded;) the cable was then under-run for four or five miles, and found defective, to the amount of 45°, of want of insulation. The bad was cut away, and a new piece of cable attached; and then joined to the cable on shore, the signal was again perfect between Valentia and Newfoundland. Then came the President's reply to her Majesty, which had been waiting at Newfoundland; and then came the news of the collision of the Europa—none of which could have been forwarded but for the responsibility taken by the electrician. It had been repaired with such promptness that neither the public nor shareholders had become aware of the interruption; and the director published a telegram as follows: "Cable now working splendidly. Signals to and from strong and perfect."

For doing this—for practically convincing the directors they were wrong—for again urging on them that, if the shore end were not put down, the same thing might occur again at any time, and they must be responsible for their negligence—Mr. Whitehouse was summoned to London, when, without a single word of explanation, a resolution was placed in his hand, reminding him "that his engagement had terminated and that he was no longer an officer of the company."

The London Post remarks:

"From the time when the project of constructing and laying down an Atlantic telegraphic cable was first proposed up to the present moment, we have kept the prominent facts of the undertaking well in view, hazarding a prediction now and then for time and experience to dispose of according to the truth. It will consequently be no more than consistent with ourselves if now, in the moment of the cable's temporary embarrassment, we venture to predicate the sort of damage which in all probability has been sustained, at the same time expressing—what, under the circumstances, is better than a hope—a belief, that the difficulty is only of a temporary character, and that it will speedily be overcome.

First of all, it is an important and a highly satisfactory symptom that electrical indications, though weak and practically incompetent, are nevertheless actually received at Valentia. Were it otherwise, then necessarily the case would be very bad indeed. Total severance of the conducting wire would in that case be indicated; which, supposing the accident to have occurred at any considerable distance oceanwards, would be irremediable. The bare fact of the reception of signals, however weak, points not to the severance of continuity in any part of the wire, but to weakening of electric insulation. So far as theoretical considerations enable one to speculate, with probability of arriving at the truth, such disturbance of insulation as actual circumstances point to may be attributable to two casualties. Either the ocean-water, having discovered some faulty part of the protecting envelope, has forced its way through and come in contact with the central conducting wire, or the external envelope has been damaged, and partially disintegrated by friction against a sharp edge of a rock. If the former, the accident may have occurred anywhere in the length of the cable, though most probably where the water is deepest; if the latter, the accident is almost necessarily, according to the terms and conditions of the case, restricted to a length not far extending from either landing-place. Judging from present appearances the latter hypothesis is by far the more probable; therefore, we believe, that a little judicious fishing up of the cable at Valentia, will result in disclosing the precise locality of the defect; and that a little judicious splicing, by which the heavy shore end will be brought in electrical communion with the oceanic part of the cable, will prevent the recurrence of similar mishaps."

An Apology for Savage Landor.

Mr. Shirley Brooks has written in the Literary Gazette a long palliation of Mr. Landor's conduct, as shown in the late trial. The following are the principal points:

With no affected and with no ordinary sorrow we refer to a case tried on the Western Circuit, and in which the name of the oldest, and, until lately, one of the most venerable of our authors, has been exposed in unhappy association with some verses which Pope would have considered fair satire, but which the present age justly regards as foul ribaldry. A poetical career which begun in 1795 has endured until 1857; but, alas, into what a quagmire has the aged poet at last strayed! Walter Savage Landor has been the defendant—if the little that was done for him can be called a defence—in an action brought against him by a clergyman of Bath, named Yescombe, for slanders against the plaintiff's wife. These slanders were couched in verses, some of which were sent to the lady, while others were published in a book called Dry Sticks Fagotted, by W. S. Landor. Previously to the publication of the libels in respect to which the jury gave their verdict, Mr. Landor, according to the statement of the plaintiff's counsel, Mr. Slade, put forth a pamphlet in which he charged Mrs. Yescombe (who had been a widow, and remarried) with six offences, among which were perjury, purloining, and swindling. For this onslaught an action was brought, but when near trial it was stayed by the mediation of Mr. John Forster. It will ever be a satisfaction, though but a melancholy one, to Mr. Forster, to remember, and to have it remembered, that he did his utmost to save the aged poet from further error and from humiliation. It is to Mr. Forster's exertion and solicitude, as testified by Mr. Landor himself, that we owe a complete edition of the works of the latter; and in time to come, due and grateful recognition will be shown of the affectionate care that collected, and made safe forever, gems that might otherwise have been lost to our treasury of English thought. To his friend, with the present of a mask on a ring, Landor wrote:

> Forster! you never wore
> Any kind of mask before,
> Yet, by holy friendship, take
> This, and wear it for my sake.

The ties, therefore, that united the two gentlemen were of no common order, and it is an act of justice to active friendship, of which there is not too much, in these days among military men, that in tracing a saddening story, we record the good offices by which the younger author endeavored to serve a friend who would not be served. Mr. Forster went down to Bath, and after much negotiation prevailed on Mr. Landor (whose determination of character had become, in age, more determined still) to sign a document in which he fully and unreservedly withdrew the charges in the pamphlet. The plaintiff's attorney demurred to a word in this document, a word implying, as he thought, that Mr. Landor had some authority for his statements. Being put right as to the meaning of the English language, he gave way, but very naturally and properly demanded a promise that the libels should not be renewed. It was given, and proceedings ceased. Then the libels were renewed, in a manner which was far more damaging than the coarse, bold charges in the pamphlet. Landor's power of condensing thought, his mastery of versification, his skill at pointing epigram, were degraded to the office of setting in poesy a series of insults and outrages, so atrocious, that, taking Mr. Landor's antecedents, his once keen judgment, his delicate tact, and his noble nature into consideration, it becomes manifest that in his case the not uncommon phenomenon must have occurred of the partial extinction of the moral sense while the intellectual faculty was preserved. In a word, Mr. Landor's condition should have been the subject of kindly care, and there should have been those about him who would have contrived that while the old poet amused his mind with composing these fantastic revenges for imaginary wrong, his hallucinations should be prevented from annoying other persons. Had Mr. Landor been a wealthy man, no doubt affectionate relatives would be found to take charge of him and his estates; and if a jury had been invited to take cognizance of his doings, it would not have been an assize jury. It was manifestly impossible for the assailed person to leave the matter where it was. Had Mr. Landor been placed under surveillance, it would at once have been the most complete trampling out of the slanders; but while it was assumed by the world that he was in a condition of responsibility, there was nothing left to Mr. Yescombe but an appeal to the world's tribunal. The libels were of course read in court, and have now been read throughout the length and breadth of the land. We transfer not one line of them to our pages. There was nothing to be said, or at all events nothing was said, on the other side. Mr. Phinn made the only plea which it was, perhaps, competent to him to make, and urged that though some of the passages in the verses could not be excused, the jury must look upon Mr. Landor as one who had been educated in the manners of a past age, when free license was accorded to satire, and literature had not been purified, and who, with the virtues, had imbibed some of the vices of the early poets. We have no toleration of the kind suggested by Mr. Phinn, nor is it fit that we should have any. But the plea was really untenable on another ground, though the jury probably knew nothing about that. Mr. Landor's writings are almost entirely free from the very faults which it was thus sought to slur over. Whether Mr. Landor will be aided to pay the £1,000 damages we have no knowledge. We have a right to assume that there may be some doubt about his own ability, if he have the will, to pay it, because it is not very long ago that he made public declaration that he possessed but a small sum, with which he proposed to endow the widow of the first tyrannicide. One would think there would be no great difficulty in preserving the old poet from a jail. The object with which we, very reluctantly, have written this brief narrative, is to urge that something is due from England to Landor. For more than sixty years Walter Savage Landor has been enriching and adorning the literature of this country. We repeat, England owes a debt to Landor, and it is not to be canceled by the miserable follies of that which has survived to be but half Landor, and that not the better half. We had rather hoped to see this view taken by some of our cotemporaries, instead of hearing the virtuous British outcry against that which every respectable person among us—cheesemongers, beadles, and all—of course, must condemn, namely, an atrocious slander on a lady. We all know how detestable are such offences, and we are, it is to be hoped, all ready to punish them at need; but, in the case of an old man of eighty-three, who has outlived his best faculties, virtuous indignation seems a little obtrusive. Let us pay the aggrieved lady her damages, and then try whether we cannot take such order with the slanderer as shall show that the memory of sixty years of noble service is not wiped out by a few vagaries of imbecile anger.

London Press.

A return has made its appearance of the number of stamped sheets of paper issued to the newspapers of the United Kingdom from July, 1855, the period at which the compulsory newspaper stamp was abolished, to the end of the last year, 1857. Commenting upon it, the Star says: "Before the abrogation of the compulsory stamp on newspapers, such returns clearly established the amount of the circulation of every jonrnal; but since that stamp ceased to become compulsory, the return before us can scarcely be regarded as an index, except in so far as the old and dear-class newspapers may be concerned. The circulation of the cheap press, which relies so much upon its sale of unstamped sheets, and to an extent which the dear newspapers never contemplated, cannot by any means be even guessed at by an examination of these stamp returns. Yet it is obvious that many well-wishers to the cheap press prefer to have their copies sent to them through the post, rather than the new channels of the news-venders.

The old and high-priced morning journals chiefly print upon stamped paper, and we may, therefore, get a notion of some kind as to the present condition of such journals. First as to the Times. In that paper we discover a manifest decline. It will be obvious if we give the figures for eight consecutive quarters:

The Times.	Copies
In September quarter, 1855	1,438,975
In December quarter, 1855	1,171,905
In March quarter, 1856	1,051,310
In June quarter, 1856	980,360
In September quarter, 1856	978,760
In December quarter, 1856	930,999
In March quarter, 1857	888,834
In June quarter, 1857	875,810

In fact the decline, as here presented, is as gradual and steady as any one could wish a rising circulation to be grdual and steady. It is due to the Times, however, to say that in the two quarters which follow the above, and which complete the return, a little rise is exhibited, as if great efforts had been made to recover lost ground. The Daily News also exhibits a decline, from 85,366 stamped copies in the March quarter, 1855, down to 54,903 in the last quarter of the return; and it is also noticeable that the figures gradually get lower, as with the Times. The Morning Chronicle also gradually sinks from 51,500 to 16,000. So does the Morning Herald, from 112,000 to 67,000, or about one-half less. The Morning Post goes down from 112,000 to 105,000; and the Morning Advertiser looks very vacillating, being in one quarter as low as 1,685, in another as high as 40,000, and latterly 20,000 and 30,000. Upon the whole, if stamp returns afford any criterion, it appears pretty plain from these figures that the dear daily press is losing ground in the public estimation. It is the same if we look at the high-priced evening papers. The return for the Globe begins with 80,000, and ends with 70,000; the Express, with nearly 200,000, comes down to less than 150,000; the Sun, 72,000, and then 52,000. So with the Evening Mail (the satellite of the Times,) which, in the first quarter of the return, shows 200,000 stamps; in the last only 120,000. Upon the whole, these facts may be considered to be a revelation as to the changed circumstances in which the metropolitan press now finds itself.

In the next place, our readers may be interested to know how it fares, as far as stamped copies are concerned, with what are considered the best established and best known weekly journals published in London. The truth is that they, too, would appear to be going down hill. Let us again take the first and last quarters of the return, and see how some of these journals really stand:

	First Quarter.	Last Quarter.
Examiner	39,000	32,000
Spectator	21,000	13,000
Athenæum	26,000	24,000
Saturday Review	24,000	21,000
Dispatch	100,000	74,000
Leader	13,000	7,000
Observer	42,000	31,000
Punch	80,000	45,000

Probably some far-sighted individuals may be disposed to perceive in these figures the gradual decline, not only of high-priced newspapers, but of newspapers of a certain class, and which hitherto have been regarded as the best-established in this country. Few people can now suffer their minds to remain in ignorance of the news until Saturday or Sunday has arrived, and the tendency of the public mind is evidently to get possession of what information they can from day to day, and this they are able to effect most economically and easily by the purchase of the cheap daily journals.

British Overland Route to the Pacific.

To the Editor of the London Times:

Sir: Some time since the public were informed that plans had been submitted to the Colonial Minister for the construction of a railway from Halifax to Fraser's River, connecting the Atlantic with the Pacific by a chain of communication passing entirely through British territory. The conception is one the magnitude and importance of which grow upon the mind the longer they are contemplated.

As the subject is intimately allied with many of the most important events in progress at the present day, I venture to recapitulate some leading facts, and to draw some conclusions familiar to many, but unnoticed, no doubt, by others of your readers. The entire length of the proposed line is 3,200 miles. As compared with the route to British Columbia, viâ Panama, the proposed line presents the following advantages:

	Days:
Liverpool to Panama	22
Panama to San Francisco	14
San Francisco to Fraser River	3
Total	39
Liverpool to Halifax	10
Halifax to Fraser River, 3,200 miles railway, say	7
Total	17

Or 22 days saved viâ Halifax.

The position of Vancouver's Island, as contrasted with Panama in relation to China and Australia, is also very significant.

	Miles.
Panama to Canton, about	10,000
Vancouver's Island to Canton, about	6,900
Panama to Sydney, about	8,200
Vancouver's Island to Sydney, about	7,200

This proximity to Australia is especially worthy of note at a time when the transmission of the mails across the Pacific is again being prominently advocated. It will be apparent from the aforegiven distances that, by transmitting the Australian mails from England to the Pacific across British North America viâ Vancouver's Island, instead of viâ Panama, a saving is effected of five days between England and the Pacific, and of 1,000 miles, or say five days more, in the passage across that ocean—ten days saved in all.

The advantages to Great Britain which would accrue consequent upon the entire service being performed through British Territory are beyond all calculation. The construction of the railway would not merely open up to cultivation a large territory to British North America hitherto almost unexplored, but it would open up to the cultivators of the soil in that territory and in Canada a means of transit to all the markets of the Pacific, and an open passage to the China seas and to our possessions to the East Indies. In every aspect, whether viewed politically, socially or commercially, the establishment of the proposed railway would give a progressive impulse to the affairs of the world, which, in its results, would eclipse anything which has been witnessed even amid the extraordinary development of the present century. That the railway will infallibly be made, is as certain as that now is the time to undertake it. One does not require to be a prophet to predict that, when the resources of British Columbia are fully opened up, and a communication established between the Atlantic and the Pacific, there will be ample traffic for a dozen steamers as large as the Great Eastern on both oceans. The British Empire has now the opportunity of securing that position which it has hitherto occupied without dispute as the greatest commercial nation in the world. Our Transatlantic brethren are boldly competing with us for this sovereignty, and events point to the Pacific as the future theatre of the struggle. The able letters of your correspondent from San Francisco and British Columbia have awakened public attention to the rich prize within the nation's grasp, and there can be but little doubt that the construction of the proposed railway would aid materially, not merely in securing it, but in increasing its value.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

London, Sept. 7, 1858. R. E. S.

Another Bloody Affray in Baltimore—Police Officer Killed.

From the Sun of Friday.

The western quarter of the city on Wednesday night was the scene of an affray, the result of which was ths instant killing of police officer Benjamin Benton, of the Western District, by a shot from a pistol in the hands of a man named Henry Gambrill, the keeper of a public house on Franklin-street, near Howard-street. It appears that a dance or some other kind of amusement was going on in a house on Biddle-street, near Pennsylvania-avenue. A number of disorderly characters were among those present, and about 11½ o'clock Officer Burke, of that beat, apprehending a disturbance, gave the usual double rap for assistance, and was joined by his brother officers, Benton, (the deceased,) Rigdon and Brown, who seized on two of the party—David Houck and John Isenhart—at the request of the proprietor of the house, and attempted to take them to the station-house. Benton and Rigdon had hold of Houck, and, while struggling with him, Gambrill interfered, and after threatening to knock Benton down, stepped back several paces, and leveling a revolver within three feet of Benton's head, fired. The ball entered immediately back of the left ear, and passing entirely through the neck, came out at the right ear, almost in a line with its entrance. Benton released his hold on Houck, and fell dead, the ball having severed the spinal cord and cut the base of the brain away. Gambrill escaped, but was afterwards arrested by Captain Linaweaver, and locked up with Houck and Isenhart.

The Coroner's investigation was concluded about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when the jury rendered the verdict that "the deceased, Benjamin Benton, came to his death from a ball fired from a pistol in the hands of Henry Gambrill," who was immediately committed to jail by Justice Logan for the action of the Grand Jury. David Houck and John Isenhart were also committed on the charge of disorderly conduct and resisting the officers.

Mr. Benton was connected with the Police Department for 8 years past, and was retained through the several administrations which intervened on account of his excellent qualities as an officer. He was about 45 years of age, and leaves a wife and five children.

Wagon Road Across Tehuantepec.

From the National Intelligencer.

Among the different routes and means of communication by which it is proposed to shorten the distance between the Atlantic and Pacific portions of the Union, a wagon road across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, as preparatory, we believe, to the completion of a railway, has long attracted the speculative enterprise of individual capitalists, and engaged a large share of public attention in the Southwestern States, and indeed throughout the whole Mississippi valley. So long as this work was regarded as rather "speculative" than practical, it naturally encountered grave doubts as to the probability of its speedy consummation; but we learn from that substantial journal, the New-Orleans Commercial Bulletin, that the enterprise is now in process of actual realization, under the auspices of a company believed to be adequate to its completion, and which, in token of its responsible character, has already entered into a contract with the Government for the transportation of the Pacific mails. In order to comply with the terms of this contract it will be necessary that the road should be finished on the first of November next. Vigorous steps have accordingly been taken to secure the necessary vessels to ply between New Orleans and the river Coatzacoalcos, as also to place on the land route across the Isthmus the requisite number of stages and wagons for the conveyance of passengers, freight and mails. Thus it would seem that this long-talked-of communication with the Pacific by the Isthmus of Tehuantepec begins to assume a less airy character than heretofore. It is a road for the transmission of passengers and goods, and yet the transfer of its charter from company to company has heretofore been the principal chronicle by which its existence was verified.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

Magnetic Telegraph Company's Offices—No. 43 Wall-stree and Astor House.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Tariff and the Pennsylvania Iron Interests—War Department Expenses—Trial of the Captain of the Slaver Echo, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Washington, Friday, Sept. 24.

The Treasury Department is being flooded with letters from Pennsylvania and other sections, complaining of the injurious effects of the present tariff upon the iron interests of the country. The writers say that they are unable to compete with the foreign article introduced at the present low duty, but they seem to be ignorant of the fact that the amount imported under the present tariff has fallen greatly below the importations under the previous act. The Secretary is, then, at a loss to understand how the competition under the present tariff has embarrassed the iron interest, when that competition has been much less during the last fiscal year than it had been previously under the old tariff.

The drafts of the War Department upon the Treasury have been extraordinarily heavy during the first quarter of the present fiscal year—those for the Quartermaster's Department alone amounting to $4,500,000—$1,900,000 of which have been paid to the order of Captain Van Vliet, for the Utah service.'

I hear some mysterious murmurings about a still more mysterious contract said to have been concluded between the Government and Mr. Morse, for the use of his patent in altering two thousand old muskets into breech-loading guns, for which Mr. Morse is to receive $10 per musket. This contract was to cover twenty-five hundred guns, but to quiet another party, who threatened an exposure, five hundred of the number will be altered according to his patent, at the same compensation.

As the trial of the Captain of the slaver Echo progresses, everything connected with his capture is read with interest. The report of Lieut. Maffit's evidence, as published in the papers, states that the character of the Echo was never suspected until that vessel turned from her port and attempted to escape. This is incorrect, as I am informed by Lieut. Maffit himself. So soon as he saw the Echo standing from the East, and very light, he had some suspicion of her character, and determined to board her. It was not until she turned from her port and stood again to the windward that he was convinced she was a slaver. During the whole day he had kept a close watch on her, and could perceive an unusual excitement on her deck. Lieut. M. states that the excitement among his crew was so great, when they discovered they had a prize, that he could with difficulty preserve discipline. In thirty minutes from the time his men started to board the Echo, the Captain and crew of that vessel were on the Dolphin in chains. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Friday, Sept. 24.

The Board of Army officers recently appointed to examine into the relative merits of certain new methods of priming small arms, say, "In view of the result of all the tests, and after a careful consideration of them, they do not feel authorized to recommend the introduction of either Ward's or Martin's into the service. With respect to that of Butterfield, notwithstanding the fact that there seem to be several serious objections, and these are of such a nature as can be best tested by field service, the Board recommend that about fifty muskets be equipped with his priming arrangements." It is said that the Secretary of War has ordered a similar experiment with Martin's primer. A method submitted by Major Laidley seemed to the Board to obviate many objections found in the others heretofore tested.

In a letter from Captain Chauncey, of the steamer Niagara, received by the Secretary of the Navy, he speaks of the captured Africans as being in an unhealthy condition generally. Two-thirds of them were suffering diarrhœa, and nearly one-third with opthalmia. Two died within a day after being received on board his vessel.

The New-York State Inebriate Asylum.

CEREMONY OF LAYING THE CORNER-STONE—ORATION BY THE HON. EDWARD EVERETT—ADDRESSES BY OTHER DISTINGUISHED GENTLEMEN.

Binghamton, Friday, Sept. 24—12 P. M.

Notwithstanding a rainy and disagreeable forenoon, many thousands of people were assembled to witness the ceremony of laying the corner-stone of the "Inebriate Asylum," to-day. The stone was laid in due and ancient form, by the Masonic Fraternity, John L. Lewis, Jr., Grand Master of the State of New-York, officiating. A large number of Masons from the two lodges, chapter, and encampment of Binghamton, and from various parts of the State, were present.

When these ceremonies were concluded the people repaired to a spacious tent, capable of holding over 5,000 persons, which had been erected on the ground, and which was well filled, to witness the remaining exercises.

After prayer by the Rev. Dr. Beach, of Binghamton, the Hon. Benj. F. Butler, President of the Board of Trustees of the Institution, delivered some eloquent opening remarks.

Elaborate and able addresses were delivered by Dr. John W. Francis and the Rev. Dr. Bellows, of New-York, both of whom paid high and deserved tributes to Dr. Turner, the founder and chief mover of the Institution, who was present.

Remarks were also made by the Hon. D. S. Dickinson and the Hon. Edward Everett.

A beautiful and appropriate poem was delivered by Alfred B. Street, Esq., of Albany.

The exercises were extremely interesting, and went off with great success and applause. Two of the announced speakers, the Rev. Dr. Bethune, of Brooklyn, and the Hon. Geo. W. Clinton, of Buffalo, were prevented from being present. Sutherland's Brass Band, of Syracuse, furnished the music. The trains of the Erie Road, running especially for the occasion, and the numerous carriages—all that Binghamton could furnish—presented an animated spectacle. The imposing view afforded by the site, which is about two miles east of Binghamton, was the admiration of all present.

In the evening the Presbyterian Church (the weather preventing the removal of the tent to the village) was jammed to hear the masterly oration of Edward Everett, on "Washington." Over 1,000 persons were present, and the distinguished orator and his glowing sentences were received with rapturous applause.

Mr. Everett is the guest of the Hon. D. S. Dickinson.

The day is a proud one for Binghamton, and as one consecrated to a noble philanthropy, will long be remembered.

A Case of False Imprisonment.

Hartford, Conn., Friday, Sept. 24.

A very important law-case was decided by Judge Ellsworth to-day. Geo. A. Hill, a Boston broker, was decoyed to this city by means of anonymous letters, and on his arrival the parties who used fraud to get him here, caused him to be arrested and committed on a charge of debt and concealment of property. A habeas corpus was sued out, and a release claimed on the ground that the arrest was illegal. Judge Ellsworth ordered Mr. Hill to be discharged, on the ground that fraud was employed in his arrest, and intimated that Hill could recover heavy damages for false imprisonment.

Murder in New-London.

New-London, Conn., Friday, Sept. 24.

The third mate of the whaling brig Laurens, a Portuguese named Antoine, was found murdered this morning. He left his boarding-house soon after 4 o'clock this morning, and was found dead in the street, with a small dagger in the breast. The cause of the murder is not yet known. The person who found the body saw two men and a woman leave the spot suspiciously as he approached. The murdered man was paid off yesterday.

Prize-Fight in New-Haven—One of the Parties Killed.

New-Haven, Friday, Sept. 24.

George Mercer, an Englishman, and a cutler by trade, was killed in an amateur prize-fight in this city, last night, by William Houston, another Englishmam. There was but one witness present. They fought five rounds. On the first two Houston fell, and on the other three Mercer fell, and did not rise from the last. His brain was congested. Houston is committed for examination to-day.

Pennsylvania Politics—County Fair.

Harrisburg, Friday, Sept. 24.

The conferees of the Sixteenth Congressional District spent to-day in ineffectual balloting. A motion to drop all the candidates and nominate General Fitter was defeated.

The Dauphin County Fair closed this evening. The trotting race was won by Mr. Queen's Jim Warden, of Gorte, beating Gentle Annie. The horse jockey made an able practical address, which was well received.

Execution of a Murderer.

Danville, Penn., Friday, Sept. 24.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.

Card from Cyrus W. Field, Esq.—The Cable Not in Working Order.

New-York, Friday Evening, Sept. 24, 1858.

To the Associated Press:

Accompanying this I beg to hand you copies of recent communications from the honorary directors of the Atlantic Telegraph Company and myself to Mr. De Sauty, the chief electrician at the Trinity Bay Office. Mr. De Sauty's answers will be furnished for publication without unnecessary delay.

I deem it proper to state as the result of my inquiries concerning the dispatch of Thursday from Trinity Bay, announcing the resumption of perfect signals through the cable from Valentia, that the announcement was made through a dispatch from the Superintendent of the land lines in Newfoundland to the agent of the Associated Press, and was unquestionably reported in good faith, but as the information has not yet been confirmed by Mr. De Sauty, who alone has full knowledge of all the facts, I regard the statement as possibly premature. It is conjectured that the shore end of the cable at Valentia must be taken up for a distance of several miles, which, by reason of bad weather or other unavoidable difficulties, may occupy three or four weeks. The depth of water within two hundred miles of the Irish coast ranges from about 50 to 400 fathoms, and it is not doubted that even 250 miles of the cable could be raised if deemed necessary. Respectfully, &c.,

CYRUS W. FIELD.

New-York, Friday, Sept. 24, 1858—10 A. M.

C. V. De Sauty, Trinity Bay:

Great dissatisfaction exists in this country, with the reserve maintained at Trinity Bay in contrast with the frank communications from Valentia to the British public. Give us daily information of the state of the telegraph under your charge.

PETER COOPER,
CYRUS W. FIELD,
WILSON G. HUNT,
E. M. ARCHIBALD,
WATTS SHERMAN.

[Taken to the offices of the other Honorary Directors in New-York, but they could not be seen—hence the absence of their signatures.]

New-York, Friday, Sept. 24, 1858—12 M.

To De Santy, Trinity Bay, N. F.:

Dispatches from you and from Mackay are contradictory. Now please give me explicit answers to the following inquiries:

1. Are you now, or have you been within three days, receiving distinct signals from Valentia?

2. Can you send a message, long or short, to the Directors at London?

3. If you answer No to the above, please tell me if the electrical manifestations have varied essentially since Sept. 1?

CYRUS W. FIELD.

Trinity Bay, N. F., Friday, Sept. 24.

C. W. Field, New-York:

We have received nothing intelligible from Valentia since the 1st of September, excepting feeling a few signals yesterday. I cannot send anything to Valentia. There has been very little variation in the electrical manifestations.

DE SAUTY.

More Miracles.—The Rev. Mr. Marko, of Grand Rapids, Mich., writes to the Freeman's Journal that while Father Weninger was officiating at the ceremony of Dedicating the Cross at Holy Trinity Church, in the presence of an immense multitude, a solemn and extraordinary event occurred. He says: "As soon as the cross had been dedicated and was about being raised, there appeared on the blue sky, surrounded by a cluster of white clouds, a regularly-formed, large, white and well-designed cross, which disappeared at the moment the missionary cross was sunk into the ground. The whole crowd present gazed with amazement at this striking appearance, and you could hear persons, less credulous, utter these words, 'This is more than natural!'"

"I know very well (the Rev. Mr. Marko goes on to say) there will be many critics who will explain this event as an accidental natural phenomenon; but such should consider that the appearance was a cross on the blue sky, white, regular, with sharp-edged corners, and surrounded by a cluster of clouds. If this be merely natural, why does it never appear on any other occasion? And why does it happen that this extraordinary event occurs just at the raising of the cross of a holy mission, in presence of hundreds to witness it, and disappears at the moment the missionary cross is erected? * * * * * * *

This apparation took place at about 2 o'clock, P. M., on the eve of the Nativity, B. V. M."

Attempted Self-Destruction.—A German, named John Swance, residing in South First-street, attempted to shuffle off his mortal coil on Thursday, by hanging himself. He was discovered by some of the neighbors before the coil was quite shuffled off and cut down. John is indignant and threatens to make another attempt.

Burglary.—The residence of Chas. Cowen, in Henderson-street, was entered on Thursday night by burglars. The thieves probably became alarmed and left without any plunder.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

It was Mr. Macpherson, and not Mr. McLellan, who took the second prize for the Broad Sword Dance—and Piper, Peter Bowman, not Boorman, who was second in the short and first in the long races—two little errors which occur in your report of our Second Annual Games. Permit me to thank you on behalf of the Club for the very handsome manner in which you have noticed us.

SEA AND SHIP NEWS.

Facts Respecting the Burnt Steamer.

The fact that the steamer Austria is nearly a week overdue at this port would excite serious fears for her safety, even if there had been no intelligence of the steamer seen on fire at sea on the 13th. The position where she was observed by the Arabian, viz.: lat. 45° 12′, long. 41° 48′, is just about half way between Southampton and New-York, and in the direct line of vessels going and returning which do not sight Cape Race. The screw-steamers are of this class. The Austria having left Southampton on the 4th, under favorable circumstances she would have been more than half way across in ten or eleven days, that is, at the time the burning steamer was seen. But supposing that she had been on fire for one or two days when seen by the Arabian, the Austria may have been in that locality. The Cunard screw-steamer Alps left this port on the 5th, with a light freight and no passengers. She has generally made the run in from 11 to 14 days, and under favorable circumstances must have been within one or two days' sail of the English Coast on the 15th. The Alps, like the Austria, has an overhanging bow, and her bottom is painted red. The Alps also has a working-beam above her second deck, while the Austria has none, her engines being direct acting, with two short upright cylinders.

The following private telegram was received from Halifax yesterday, at Mr. Cunard's office.

Halifax, Thursday, Sept. 23.

E. Cunard, New-York:

The captain of the Roseneath was not near the burning steamer, but thought she had a working beam; did not observe paddle-boxes; he thought she was a wooden ship; the mate thinks she was iron. She had a long overhanging bow. Signed,

W. CUNARD.

It is thought that the framework of the bridge, or centre houses, of which the Austria had high ones on deck, may have been mistaken at a distance for a working beam.

The Ariel has an upright stem. It could not, therefore, have been the Vanderbilt steamer.

The following dispatch was yesterday received by Messrs. Kunhardt & Co.:

Halifax, Friday, Sept. 24.

The captain of the Roseneath can't tell whether the burning steamer was a paddle or screw-vessel. She had a working beam above deck. The Arabian could not give him the name. On arrival of the Arabian we will telegraph to you the captain's report.

The Austria had on board:

First cabin—Full passengers	49
First cabin—Children	19
Second cabin—Full passengers	103
Second cabin—Children	8
Steerage—Full passengers	211
Steerage—Children	30
Total	420

The crew consisted of about 100 persons, and twenty or thirty more steerage passengers may have been taken on board at Southampton. The first and second cabins were full, making a probable total of 550 souls on board. No list of steerage passengers is ever sent over. Messrs. Kunhardt & Co., however, consider the information thus far received so contradictory as to leave the whole thing in doubt. The arrival of the Arabian may throw more light upon the identity of the vessel. Large bids were made in Wall-street yesterday for insurance upon shipments aboard the Austria, even as high as 50 per cent., but all the offices declined the offer.

A great many regrets were expressed, yesterday, that the Atlantic telegraph is not in condition to furnish us a list of missing vessels from the other side. There was also a strong disposition to censure the conduct of the Captains of the Arabian and the Roseneath, for not fully satisfying themselves of the identity of the burning steamer, and thus relieving the anxiety of the thousands who are now left in suspense concerning the fate of friends, and also of multitudes who are interested in ships and cargoes now upon the ocean, and liable to be in the vicinity of the burning vessel. Their conduct in passing so unconcernedly the vessel without learning her name, was not in keeping with the spirit manifested by their countryman, the Captain of the Three Bells. Some cask, boat, bucket or handspike might have been picked up near the wreck, which would have explained the name of the unfortunate vessel, as these articles generally have the name of the steamer marked upon them.

The New Pilot Boat Edmund Blunt.

A fine new vessel has just been added to the fleet of Sandy Hook pilot boats. She was built by Mr. Williams, of Green Point, for the owners of the lost boat Jacob A. Westervelt, which was run down at sea by the steamer Anglo-Saxon, at which time one of the pilots, Mr. O'Keefe, was drowned. The names of the present company are Eugene H. Sullivan, Jas. H. Tenure, Jno. E. Johnson, Daniel Baker, Chas. Cummisky and Peter McAnany. The new boat is 80 feet on deck, breadth of beam 20½ feet, depth 8 feet, and is 121 tons burthen. She cost about $9,000. Her model differs from any other boat in the service, having a longer floor, and her lines being carried out the full length of the boat, giving great buoyancy. She has a long bow with a good entrance, and a clean, sharp run. Her frame is of the best white oak, and she is fastened with seven-eighths copper bolts and Long Island locust tree.nails. Her deck is of yellow pine beams, thoroughly kneed. Masts 58 and 70 feet; main boom 45, gaft 20½, and bowsprit 15½ feet respectively. The sails are of cotton duck, gib and mainsail No. 2, and foresail No. 1. She also carries a gaft topsail and large staysail of Holland duck, and a square-sail of the same material for use in light winds.

Mr. Edmond Blunt, in whose honor she was christened, acknowledged the compliment by presenting the boat with a full suit of colors and a set of handsome lounge cushions. The burgee bears his name encircled in a wreath, and also contains the figure of a flying dove, bearing an olive leaf in its bill. This is the second boat bearing the names of the well-known authors of the Coast Pilot. The George W. Blunt (No. 11) was built about a year and a half ago. The Edmund Blunt ranks (No. 2,) both of the New-York Pilots. The owners of the new boat with a party of their friends, on Friday, made a short excursion down the bay, and will make another at 10 o'clock this morning. The performances of the boat were very satisfactory, although the wind was too light to properly test her sailing qualities. She gives every promise, however, of being one of the fastest and best sea-going craft in the fleet. She sits upon the water as gracefully as a swan. The pilots of the Edmund Blunt, who are reckoned among the most experienced and reliable in their arduous profession, enter upon this new era in their career under circumstances which must command respect, if not to say sympathy, for their misfortunes. With the destruction of the Westervelt they lost all they possessed, and they must struggle on for many years to make good the loss and pay off the debt which they have incurred in building the new boat. They commence, too, with a long winter before them, and but a moderate amount of business in prospect. They will, at least, have the cordial good wishes of every one for their success. It is to be hoped that they may never meet with a disaster so serious as the one from which they are now struggling to recover.

Shipwrecked Seamen Rescued by the Pilot Boat Eclipse.—The pilot boat Eclipse, Capt. Rogers, of New-London, arrived in from a cruise on Sunday last. On Saturday morning, about 4 o'clock, when off Montauk Point, L. I., the Eclipse picked up a boat containing the Captain and crew (eight men) of the bark Elizabeth, from Eastport, Me., bound to New-York, in ballast. We learn from the New-London Chronicle, that during the gale on Thursday, which was so severe in this region, the bark commenced leaking, and on the following evening, at about 8 o'clock, the Captain and crew, finding it unsafe to remain longer on board, abandoned her and took to the boat. The bark was then fifteen or twenty miles to the westward of Montauk Point. The men pulled all night in the boat until after 4 in the morning, when, having reached Montauk, they were fallen in with by the pilot boat, and taken on board. They were well taken care of by Capt. Rogers, and brought across the Sound to Watch Hill, where they were landed during Saturday forenoon. Some of the crew proceeded to New-London by the Stonington boat, and being on their way to New-York, they were taken over the New-London road to this city, free of charge.—New-Haven Jour. 22d

Although there is some discrepancy in the dates, we suspect that these "shipwrecked seamen" are the same eight mentioned in the letter of our Sag Harbor correspondent yesterday. The Underwriters here have heard nothing about the loss of the bark Elizabeth. It is probable that these eight men are part of the crew of the Spanish slaver which was recently abandoned and found off the coast of Cuba.—Commercial Advertiser.

Whaling in the Arctic.—The whaling brig Amaret, Captain Quayle, of New-London, arrived last Saturday, from the Arctic Ocean. Capt. Q. states, as we learn from the Chronicle, that his vessel was frozen into the ice, in latitude 65° 21′, longitude 66° 30′, from the 27th of last October until the 22d of June last, nearly eight months! During all that time nothing could be done but to lie by and wait patiently for the breaking of the ice, keeping as warm and comfortable as possible. There was but one case of scurvy during the time among the crew, which consisted of fifteen men in all. One of the men was badly frost-bitten, also. But, with these two exceptions, the crew were in good health and condition during the time of their long and tedious imprisonment in the ice. Capt. Quayle took his first whale on the 1st of July, and on the 22d of the same month had his vessel full, and was ready to come home.

Removal of a Land Office.—In obedience to orders from the President of the United Stotes, the Acting Commissioner of the General Land Office advises that the land office at Faribault, in Minnesota, will be removed to St. Peters, and the office at Stillwater will be removed to Cambridge, in said State, at an early day. Instructions will be immediately issued from the General Land Office to carry these orders into effect.—Washington Union.

THE GOLD REGION IN KANSAS.

Where is Pike's Peak?—How the Gold Discoveries were Made, and the Prospects.

From the Kansas City Journal of Commerce, 15th.

For many years the traders from this city to the mountains have believed in the existence of gold in the head streams of the Arkansas and South Platte. As long ago as 1835, Eustache Carriere, a French trapper now living superannuated, with the Choteau family in this city, was lost from his party in that region, and wandered for several weeks through the country, during which time he collected in his shot pouch numerous specimens, which he carried with him to New-Mexico. They proved to be gold, and a party was there formed and returned with M. Carriere to search for the locality. He was unable to find the streams where he had collected his specimens, and was tied up and severely whipped by the Mexicans, under the supposition that he did not wish to disclose their location. This was the first discovery which we have been able to learn. The Catholic missionaries have frequently found specimens in possession of the Kansas Indians and others, who annually visit the country for hunting.

Colonel Wm. Bent, or as he is more familiarly known, "Bill Bent," has been trading in the vicinity of the country for many years. He says that the existence of gold has been known to the Indians ever since his residence among them. He made many inquiries after the discovery of gold in California, and has ever since been satisfied of its existence. The Indians, however, have always remonstrated against the knowledge being made known to the whites. The country is their richest hunting-grounds, their best wintering country, and, as one old chief told Bent, if the white men ever found the gold they would take them from their "best and last home." Their jealousy has thus far guarded their country and kept the secret from the white man.

THE SECOND DISCOVERY.

The second discovery was made by a party of emigrants to California, in 1851, from Missouri, Arkansas, and the Cherokee Nation. Gold was found by them while passing through the country; and a proposal made at that time to stop; but having families with them, and no means of affording them shelter or protection, they finally proceeded on to California. The development of the gold deposits of that State prevented their return; but their reports further stimulated public feeling, and nothing was accomplished or attempted until last season, when

THE PRESENT DISCOVERY

Was made. The settlement of the Kansas difficulty left many men in the country who had become habituated to excitement and adventure, and were looking out for some new field. Parties were formed at different points for explorations. Some went to Arizona, some to Salt Lake, and others to California. One, however, from the Cherokee country and Arkansas, incited by the accounts which the Cherokees gave of the Pike's Peak region, fitted out for that point. News of the expedition being brought to Lawrence, K. T., a party fitted out at that place late in May last, and a company from Missouri, under the direction of a member of the California party of 1851, left the central part of the State, last Spring, for the same destination.

These parties have been prospecting the country during the Summer, and their being in the country and being discovered by some of the trappers and traders, led Bordeau, Richard, Cantrell and others to the waters of Cherry and Long's Creek. The results of their discoveries we have already given. The great secret of the Indians is at last discovered, and before the snows of Winter cover the country, a thousand men will be at work in the auriferous sands of the mountain streams.

THE COUNTRY AND ITS LOCALITY.

From those already returned from the mines we have a generally correct idea of the region in which the gold is known to exist. Pike's Peak, which may be taken as the geographical point, is about 25 miles south of the 39th parallel of latitude, and on a direct line about 570 miles southwest of Kansas City. It is about 50 miles east of Cochetopa Pass, and about 24 miles south. The Arkansas takes its rise on the south side of the range in which the Peak is situated, and the South Platte on the north side. Mr. John Cantrell, the Lawrence, Georgia and Missouri Companies have prospected the South Platte streams, principally Cherry and Long Creek, which are from 40 to 50 miles from the Peak, almost in a westerly course. Mr. King and the Cherokee Company have, in addition, pretty thoroughly explored the Arkansas branches, with, in many instances, better success than on the Platte, but sufficient has been demonstrated to prove that both are gold producing. The two rivers head together, but the Arkansas penetrates the mountain range to a much greater distance than the other. The country prospected embraces about 70 miles north and south, and following the streams greater or less distances. From the South Platte we have as yet seen only "float gold," but from the Arkansas we have both the scales and the nuggets, as well as the gold in the quartz. The specimens which have reached Kansas City are greatly superior in richness to the first discoveries in California, and leave no doubt as to the capabilities of the mines when properly worked.

The country in the vicinity of Pike's Peak is well suited to the growth of small grain; is as well watered as the mountain districts of Pennsylvania and Virginia, and is in the same latitude with Baltimore, Cincinnati and St. Louis. But owing to its elevation, snows fall early in the Fall and late in the Spring. Trappers and traders, however, who have long been familiar with the country, speak of it as much more mild than the country at the South Pass. Immediately West and South are the Parks of the Rocky Mountains, which are represented by Fremont, Beale, Leroux, Williams, Carson and Goodale, to be exceedingly mild in Winter, affording abundance of food for stock during the entire Winter season and are the favorite Winter haunts of the Indians. From all we can learn, the seasons are as mild as any in the same latitude East and much more so, considering its altitude.

The country abounds in timber, the prevailing variety being pine—immense forests of both the yellow and white being common. Of the streams the wild cherry and timber common to this latitude are found. Game is exceedingly abundant,—the black-tailed deer, red deer, elk, antelope, mountain sheep, black bear, &c., being found in all portions of the country. It is a favorite resort for the Indians, as it affords them plenty of game when off their buffalo hunts, and is where they get their lodge poles and equipments for their excursions for buffalo on the plains.

The country bordering the Missouri River in Iowa and Nebraska as far as Council Bluffs and above, probably the best route would be by Fort Laramie, although the route up the Spanish Fork of the Platte is very sandy and covered for long distances with a dense growth of the prickly pear, which is very severe upon stock, as well as upon men. The sand hills greatly retard the progress of trains, and the prickly pear furnishes no sustenance whatever. The streams are numerous, and when full very difficult to cross.

To all east of the Mississippi, and for a few hundred miles west of it, the best route by far is by the great Santa Fé road, and thence following the Arkansas to Bent's Fort and the mines. This is the route traveled by the mountain traders for half a century, and is a well-beaten, plain wagon road the entire distance. There have passed over it the present season over ten thousand wagons, as far as the crossing of the Arkansas, and over five hundred have left this city the present season for Bent's Fort and the different trading posts in that region of country. These wagons carry from five thousand to six thousand pounds each, and are usually drawn by six yoke of oxen. It is also the route which the stock-drovers take to California, and we give to-day the amount of stock which Mr. Thatcher proposes to start with the present Fall. But to those who may not have access to those who are familiar with the route, they can gain all the information they desire from the reports of Fremont, Beale and Gunnison. Their point of starting and general direction is the same, and, although their explorations were made for railway purposes, yet their description of the country is, perhaps, the most reliable to which the great mass of people can have access.

The trip is usually made by Kansas City traders with their heavily laden wagons, in 25 to 30 days, and starting any time from the middle of April to the 1st of October, plenty of grass is to be found throughout the whole extent of the route. The past season grass was abundant as early as the 1st of April. Wood and water are more abundant than by any other route, avoiding the wide and treeless table-lands of the more northern regions.

From the Lawrence (Kansas) Republican.

As we go to press we learn that Mr. Archibald has just received a letter from his son, who was one of the Lawrence company that went out last Spring. He reports that the Lawrence boys have left Pike's Peak and gone to Cherry Creek, where they are now making from $5 to $8 a day in digging gold. The higher they go up the stream the coarser they find the gold and the more of it. They are so well pleased with their success that they have determined to winter in the mines. This news is the most satisfactory and reliable of any that we have yet heard.

Quite a number have already left this city for the mines. There is great excitement over the matter in Leavenworth, and they are holding public meetings, organizing companies, &c., &c. A German company is about to start from Kansas City. Several persons are going from Topeka. We hear of others from Prairie City. We saw some specimens of the gold last week in Leavenworth. It was brought in by Mr. Elmore King. His statements are evidently made with care, and we think are reliable. Indeed, from all we can learn, we should not be at all surprised if gold in large quantities should be found to exist all along the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, from the head waters of the Platte to those of the Arkankansas. If so, it insures the early and rapid settlement of the whole of Western Kansas.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

St. Louis, Friday, Sept. 24.

The Wyandotte (Kansas) Gazette of the 18th inst., says that yesterday $10,000 in gold dust arrived here from Pike's Peak. One man brought $6,000, the result of a few weeks' work.

Southern Lamentations over D. S. Dickinson.

From the Charleston Mercury.

Daniel S. Dickinson, when the contest arose in Congress in 1850–52, on the Wilmot Proviso, and the exclusion of the South from California, stood firm for the rights of the South. Martin Van Buren went with the Free-Soil Party against the rights of the South. This divided the Democratic Party in New-York into Hards and Softs; Dickinson being the head of the Hards, standing on the old grounds of the Democratic Party; Martin Van Buren leading the Softs, seeking affinity with the Abolitionists in the appropriation of all the territories of the United States to the North. Our Territories are now all appropriated by the North, and the policy of the Softs has prevailed. The consequence is, that Mr. Dickinson and all that portion of the Democratic party of New-York which affiliated with him, are overwhelmed. Tammany Hall, in the City of New-York, has been wrested from them, and at the late Democratic Convention, held to nominate candidates for State offices, the representatives they sent to the Convention have been refused admission into the Convention. The Free-Soil wing of the Democratic Party in New-York now control the party, and are, in fact, the party. Thus it is that every portion of any party at the North, which dares to support the constitutional rights of the South on the subject of Slavery, are sure to be overthrown. We praise their integrity—we laud their justice and patriotism—and then hear with indifference that they are destroyed; while everywhere the harmony of the party which has ejected them from its bosom, is hailed as a matter of exultation. Now, such things are very natural—in fact, the necessary consequence of the policy of the South, in surrendering her rights in all great conflicts in the Confederacy. Our friends in the North only take the doom of a defeated and beaten party. But is it not worth while for us in the South to consider the effect upon the position of the South in the Union? Have we any reason to expect support from Northern allies, whom, in abandoning our rights, we sacrifice in the North? Is this wise—is it faithful—is it generous? Do we not deserve isolation in defending our rights and the union of the Free States against them?

Gov. Banks' Views on Military Life.

The Third Division of the Massachusetts Militia has been encamped, for military drill and exercise, at Camp Wool, in Springfield, whither Gov. Banks went on Thursday to make a speech. The following passage from his address puts the militia-man in a strong light, making guns and sabres rather attractive than otherwise:

"The school of the soldier has still stronger claims upon the public as a means of rational amusement and manly exercise. There is nothing in which our people are more deficient. Recreation and exercise are as essential to man as laws are to governments. The public diversions of other nations—the pleasures of the chase and the sports of the field, or the turf, or the ring—are little known or respected here. Alleviated by few or no pleasures, and interrupted or sustained by little or no exercise, in youth or in age, the sombre cares of business absorb the best years of our existence, and leave us exhausted, if not lifeless, at middle age. There is no class of our people that does not suffer from these unceasing, corroding cares. The farmer or the mechanic requires exercise for the same reasons, if not to the same extent, as the student or trader. There is no pursuit that brings into action all the physical powers of man, and in the most laborious vocation there are parts of the system that do not find their proper development. Families that from generation to generation closely follow sedentary occupations are for that reason dwarfed in stature. It is noticed in England that men, who from infancy are accustomed to the use of the needle, carry with them in the public streets the badge of their calling, in the contracted muscles, in the uniform movement as well as by the diminished strength of the arm thus constantly in use. It is not enough that the dwarfed stature, and shrunk limbs, mark those whose lives of labor have created them, but unless corrected by change of calling or generous exercise, they are transmitted as badges of physical deficiency, to their descendants. These are illustrations simply of the effect upon communities of constant devotion to one form of labor, unrelieved by exercise or recreation. Happy are those who, subjected to unremitting toil, find opportunity to diversify their labor with different employments; happier still those who are able to relieve the pressure upon mind and body, by resort to generous recreations and manly exercise.

Where among us can the farmer, the mechanic, the manufacturer, the merchant, the scholar, find such relief from the effects of excessive mental or physical labor? I answer that it can be found for all, if properly conducted, in the school of the soldier.

As a recreation, simply, military discipline would seem from the enthusiasm with which it is pursued, to be a satisfactory relief from pressure of business cares. As a means of exercise, there is not a limb which is not strengthened, not a muscle which is not developed in the training of the soldier. Every element of physical strength, the chest, the lungs, the voice, the limbs, receive new powers. He wears the mien of one who has been taught that it is equally pleasant and manly to command or obey, and he carries with him wherever he goes, and he transmits to those that come after him, not the stiff and awkward strut of a recruit, nor the sidelong movement of the half-developed man, but the easy, graceful and natural swing of a gentleman who suffers from no deficiency of physical power, and is embarrassed by no part of his body of which apparently he would gladly be relieved. Such physical training is invaluable, not so much to the individuals who receive it, as to the race to which they belong. It is a matter of common observation that a man transmits to his descendants not only his mental and physical deficiencies, but the very movement and carriage of the body which marks the father is repeated oftentimes with singular exactness in the son. A perfect man either in mental or physical organization is never the creation of a single generation, but wherever he stands he represents the virtues of a long line of ancestors.

There is a force which is the equivalent of intellect, if it be not intellect itself, in the personal bearing of men. I have been informed by residents in the neighborhood of the School for Feeble-Minded Youth, at Boston, that a distant spectator, who observes the pupils in their morning walks, can determine from their movement of the body the degree of intellect with which each is endowed. I repeat, then, that a correct physical training of the young men of any State is a public advantage of no slight character; and, though others may be more fortunate, I do not hesitate to say, that, surveying our schools and colleges, our private and public institutions where the personal habits of our young men are formed, I know of none which presents so many salutary opportunities for the development of physical power, as the school for the soldier, when rightly understood and conducted.

An Extensive Scheme of Forgery Discovered —Bogus Land-Warrants.

From the Rochester Union, Sept. 23.

For some days past the United States Marshal and his deputies, with the other United States officials, have been engaged in fereting out the authors of an extensive scheme of forgery and perjury, by which fraudulent land-warrants were issued. They have been successful in finding the leaders and some of the tools they have made accomplices in the transactions. A number of arrests have been made, and the examination of the accused is now going on in this city.

An old man named Samuel C. Albro, who resided at Whitestown, Oneida County, for many years, and at the time of the Last War was attached to a company from that place, has been largely engaged in making bogus land warrants. Some five years since the old man resided here, and through A. G. Mudge, Esq., obtained a pension and a land warrant, to both of which he was entitled. By this he appears to have obtained an idea of how land warrants are executed, and he engaged at once in the business. He removed, however, to Jerusalem, Yates County, and from that place he traveled into different counties of the State, assisting, for a fee, persons who desired to obtain land warrants and were entitled to them, and buying and selling the same. This was all legitimate, but he did not stop there; he made warrants for dead soldiers whose names were on the muster rolls, and when he could not find the names of the dead he took those of the living. The extent of his operations in this way is estimated as high as seventy-five or one hundred warrants.

On Tuesday Deputy Marshal Dryer, with the papers in hand, went to Jerusalem and arrested Albro, together with a Justice of the Peace named Chas. H. Vail, and three young men, named Tomer, Spencer and Casey. They were all brought to this city yesterday morning to await examination.

Meanwhile, Deputy Marshal Olmsted went to Whitestown, Oneida County, and arrested Morris Wilcox, a Justice of the Peace residing there, and some others, we believe. H. H. Bostwick, a well-known lawyer of Auburn, was also waited upon by a Deputy Marshal and escorted to this city.

It appears that Mr. Vail is a magistrate at Jerusalem, and the other persons arrested there are in his employment, he being a harness-maker. The way these men are involved is thus stated: Albro would prepare the land warrant to be executed, before witnesses, and call upon Mr. Vail to attach his signature, as a Justice of the Peace, after his journeymen had subscribed as witnesses. The witnesses swore before the Justice that they knew the man whose name was on the warrant, when, in some cases, he had died before they were born, or now resided far away. Albro told them that he had a power of attorney to act, and that it was not necessary that they should know the man personally, if they knew him (Albro) to be his attorney. It does not appear that these men shared in the proceeds of the fraud, although they committed perjury.

Mr. Wilcox, of Whitestown, appears to be in a similar fix. All he has realized was his fee for the acknowledgment, and he has doubtless got into difficulty by doing his business as a magistrate, in a loose way, assuming that what he affixed his name to was all right. He had known Albro as an old citizen, and supposed that he was doing an honest business in procuring land warrants.

Mr. Wilcox was arrested while attending the Republican County Convention, which had nominated him for a Justice of the Sessions.

Mr. Bostwick, of Auburn, is charged with having something to do with the execution of the papers used by Albro, but to what extent he is involved we cannot say. He has been held in esteem by his fellow-citizens, and it is hoped that he will vindicate himself fully in his connection with this scheme of fraud.

This morning the examination of the parties accused was commenced at the Supreme Court-room, before Com. Conkling, of Buffalo. The prosecution is conducted by U. S. District-Attorney Spencer.

Among the witnesses present is Judge Barriger, of Tioga, whose name was forged to one of the land warrants, and a Mr. Hudson of Schuyler County, whose name was likewise used without his knowledge. But little progress had been made up to adjournment this noon, but the examination would continue this afternoon.

A large number of land warrants were produced on the examination, some of which are no doubt genuine—all found in the possession of Albro. The parties under arrest have retained able counsel we understand, and will make a defence. The old man Albro is feeble and tottering on the brink of the grave, but he was pluck, and will no doubt "die game," if die he must in prison. He has often been in this city since he removed to Yates County, dealing in land warrants.

Public Baths.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Six weeks ago you gave in your columns the message of Mayor Tiemann, which recommended to the Common Council a petition whose object was to establish free baths for the people. The Common Council referred the papers to the Committee of Wharves, Piers, and Slips, viz: Aldermen Hoffmire, Murray and Starr; and Councilmen Bickford, Benjamin T. Roder and John Brady. Since that time nothing has been heard of this most interesting and important matter. Why is nothing done by these gentlemen? Many thousands of citizens are anxiously waiting for a decision from the Fathers of our City.

By putting the above question publicly to the Committee of Wharves, Piers, and Slips, you would oblige many of your readers, and especially your obedient servant,

GUSTAV STRUVE,
President of the Committee for Free Public Baths.

Calendars.—Court Calendars for Saturday. Motions and decisions.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term.—Sept. 24.

Before Judge Davies.

Jonathan Peel vs. James Sutton Elliott.—This case came up again this morning, when the counter affidavits from the plaintiff's side were read. At the suggestion of the Judge the controversy was reduced to one point, and a day was fixed for the argument thereon, namely, whether an agent being employed by a principal to receive and disburse moneys for a particular and specified purpose, and instead of doing so should appropriate the moneys he had received to his own use, can subsequently be arrested therefor, and then set up a counter claim for services. The case of Collier, the Collector of San Francisco, was said to be a case in point. The case stands adjourned.

CLAIMING A CHILD.
Before the Hon Judge Ingraham

In re the Petition of Catharine Lesslier.—The evidence in this case discloses a state of facts in regard to the child of the petitioner which has rendered it extremely difficult to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion and decision. The petitioner while unmarried became the mother of the child and at the age of six months she agreed to bind the child to the respondents for the purpose of carrying out an agreement entered into by her to give the child to them. An instrument was executed by which the child was bound to one of the respondents to be adopted by them as their child. The child was placed in their possession, and has since been supported and clothed and educated by the defendants in a suitable manner as their own child, and, the evidence shows, in a manner calculated to give him a good education. From that time the mother has in no way aided in the support or care of the child, not even so much as seeing him or inquiring as to his welfare. For eleven years the respondents have acted toward the child as his parents, and claim now to be attached to him as an adopted child to whom they propose to give their property. During the greater part of this time the mother was leading an abandoned life. From her own statement and that of her husband she has reformed, and during the last five years she has been a member of a church. The mother of a child having no known father is undoubtedly entitled to the custody of it. She is its only parent and is alone bound for its support, and if this was the only question in the case I should have no hesitation in ordering the child to be delivered to its parent. The indenture signed on behalf of the child, so far as it purports to come from the Commissioners of the Almshouse, is not valid, inasmuch as it is not executed in conformity to the provisions of the statute. Nor is it binding upon the infant as indentures of apprenticeship. It purports to be a binding for the purpose of adoption of a child; no such binding is authorized by our laws, and if the infant sought to avoid it, I am of the opinion that it would give the respondents no right to reclaim him against his will. In addition to the binding by the Almshouse Commissioners, is the consent of the mother to this contract with the respondents, for the clothing, board and education of the child until he arrives at the age of twenty-one years. Under such circumstances there is no hardship in saying that the interest of the infant should be the first consideration in the decision of this case. The abstract right of the mother to the child may be thus waived by her own agreement, and unless it appears manifestly for the interest of the infant to take the child from the respondents and deliver it to the mother, the duty of the Court would be discharged by merely inquiring whether there was any improper restraint, and if there was any, by discharging the child therefrom. I have less hesitation in such a conclusion, when I consider that the mother has never shown any regard or affection for the child since it was six months old, but has left the whole burthen and expense of its support and education to the respondent. A case similar to the present was that of the McDowles, (8 Johnson's Rep. 255,) where the children, aged eight and eleven years, were bound to one of the Society of Shakers to be brought up in their faith. The Court there says, "The infant is not bound by the indenture, but the question is as to the relief which ought to be granted. There is nothing to show any improper treatment of the infants, and that the party to whom the father intended to bind them has not faithfully performed the stipulations in the indenture. This is not a case in which the father has any equity or any right to complain. He may be bound by the indenture though the infant is not." These remarks may very appropriately be applied to the present case so as to leave the disposition of it to rest entirely upon what shall be deemed most for the welfare of the child. Upon this question, however, there is some considerable difficulty. If the respondents continue in the same course of life that the evidence shows to have existed for years past, their house is not a proper place to bring up this child. The statements made on their behalf, like those on the part of the mother, are that they have abandoned such immoral courses and have also reformed. It appears that the suggestion of the respondents' counsel would under all the circumstances be most for the benefit of the infant if any satisfactory arrangement can be made to secure that result. That suggestion is to place the child in a suitable boarding school at the expense of the respondents. In the matter of Waldron, (13 J. R. 418,) Chief J. Thompson says: "In cases of writs of habeas corpus directed to private persons to bring up infants the Court is bound to set the infant free from an improper restraint, but they are not bound to deliver the infants over to any particular person. This must be left to their discretion according to circumstances that shall appear before them." From the examination of the child it is apparent that he is under no restraint from which he desires to be relieved; but that he wishes to remain with the respondent. It is proper to add that this application was returnable before me, and not before the Court, and as in the case last referred to, it would have been more properly made to the Court where the equity powers of the Court could give more suitable directions as to the care and custody of the child than can be ordered by a Judge in this proceeding. For the purpose of enabling the respondents to carry out the suggestion above mentioned, I shall make no order to deliver the child to the petitioner, but I direct this matter to be adjourned to the second Monday of October, at 10 A.M. before me. In the meantime the respondent must make suitable provision for the child at a suitable boarding-school, so that it may then appear that the interests and welfare of the child will be best promoted by leaving him under their charge. If no such arrangement is made before that time, the petitioner may renew this motion on the adjourned day.

Mary Harper vs. George Goodloe Harper.—Judgment of divorce granted to the wife.

COMMON PLEAS—Special Term—Sept. 24.

Before Judge Brady.

Liffman vs. Petersburg.—The allegation of the plaintiff, that the money obtained from her by the defendant was her separate and individual property, is subject to the criticism that it is a mere conclusion of law, and this view presents the only material question upon the motion to discharge the order of arrest. The defendant, however, in moving upon the plaintiff's affidavit, admits the contents thereof to be true, and if a conclusion of law, as in this case, stands as a fact alleged, I do not see how it can be said with justice that the averment, either as a conclusion of law or as a fact, is not truthfully made. If, on the complaint, an issue were framed upon the plaintiff's title, whether she owned the property or not, it would necessarily depend upon certain facts to be established, and the issue would be, Was the money fraudulently obtained by the defendant the separate property of the plaintiff? In aid of this, it appears that the plaintiff was in possession of the money, and she may have received through a trustee during the absence of her husband, or under the decree of the Chancellor of Illinois, in pursuance of the statute laws, 1857, page 52, section 1, which contemplates in certain cases such a ceremony. It is only necessary that a prima facie case should be presented on affidavit to authorize an order of arrest, and if the facts and circumstances detailed are sufficient to satisfy the Judge making the order that a cause of action exists, the order should issue. In Depeu vs. Lent, 2 Abb. 131, which was an action of claim and delivery of goods, the affidavit of the plaintiff as to a part of the goods claimed was that he was the owner, and as to that, on objection, Justice Hoffman said: "The plaintiff swears to an absolute ownership, and so far his proceedings are unobjectionable."

There are cases parallel to this, in which the allegations upon which the plaintiff predicates his course of action are legal conclusions. For example: that he sold and delivered certain goods. A sale is a legal conclusion predicated on the acts of the parties, and a delivery upon the act of the person alleging it to have been made. So in actions for the recovery of personal property, the general allegation that the plaintiff was the owner is the usual form of statement, and has not, that I am aware of, been declared to be objectionable. For all purposes it is sufficient, and if the details of the ownership were spread upon the record, that form of procedure might lead to a statement of the evidence going to prove it. That would be objectionable. Upon a full and careful consideration of the question, therefore, I have arrived at the conclusion that the averment of separate ownership not denied, coupled with the fact that there is a a statute of Illinois under which the plaintiff might have become possessed of the money, is sufficient, and that upon such a state of facts the question should not be disposed of on a mere objection to the affidavit upon which the order of arrest was granted. In reference to the suggestion of the voluntary appropriation by the plaintiff of the money claimed, to her husbaand's use, I deem it only necessary to say that the money was obtained by fraud—that no title passed to any person, and that the husband, even if the trust were valid, could not interfere with the plaintiff in her right to require the application of the fund as designed.

Motion to discharge denied but without costs.

A. J. Dittenhoeffer, for plaintiff; Mott, Murray and Harris for defendant

MARINE COURT—Friday, Sept. 21.

Before Judge Thompson.

Morris H Henry vs John H Carnochan.—This case has been before the Court three days. The plaintiff is a student of medicine and surgery, and the defendant is the well-known Professor of Surgery in the New-York Medical College. Several months since the plaintiff was admitted as a student in the office of Dr. Carnochan. The action is brought for services rendered to the latter in assisting in the making of anatomical drawings and sketches, in acting as amanuensis, and in writing medical disquisitions and attending patients. For these various services the plaintiff claims about $500. On the part of the defendant it is contended that the plaintiff was taken as a student without any provision or other consideration except that the services he might render in lieu thereof, were to be set off as against the instruction and experience he might acquire under the practice of the defendant. It was also alleged that the plaintiff had been charged with some rudeness towards Dr. Abrahams, in consequence of which Dr. Carnochan had withdrawn from the plaintiff the tickets of admission to the lectures. Dr. Abrahams was called, and asked if he had not struck the plaintiff. Mr. Busteed advised the witness not to answer; but, the Judge assuring the witness, if he refused to answer, that the Court would commit him, the Doctor answered that he did, and that the plaintiff then drew a penknife upon him, and the fracas terminated without further disturbance. The case went to the Jury about mid-day, and they returned a verdict of $400 for the plaintiff.

DRY GOODS—The auction sale of French Goods commenced yesterday, was concluded to-day. The variety of desirable lots offered was less extensive, and the competition was, in consequence, less animated. Such goods as really suited buyers were readily purchased at very fair prices. Other fabrics went off less satisfactorily. Privately, trade exhibits less vigor, the heaviest Fall orders having been filled. Yet the demand is good for desirable productions, and prices of such are, for the most part, fairly sustained. Bleached Cottons and Cotton Jeans find ready buyers; while brown Cottons, Prints, Printing-Cloths, Drills, Duks, Ticks, Cotton-flannels, and nearly all descriptions of Woolens, are rather moderately inquired for. Fancy Cassimeres, especially such as are quoted at from $1@$2 ⅌ yard, are actively sought after. These pay well. The heavy auction sales of foreign fabrics have checked private transactions. Desirable styles of dress goods are least freely offered, and are wanted at good prices. Otherwise, the current movements are moderate, and prices are heavy and irregular.

DYEWOODS—Sales 160 tons Maracaibo Fustic, at private bargain; 20 tons Savanilla. do., at $21; and 30 tons St. Domingo Logwood, at $13 75 ⅌ ton.

GRAIN—Wheat is less sought after, owing, in part to the high prices asked by holders. Desirable lots are not plenty. BARING BROTHERS & CO.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Per Niagara.] Liverpool, Friday, Sept. 10, 1858.

Grain—Firmness has been the chief characteristic of the grain trade since our last report, a fair consumptive business only passing in all articles. Wheat and Flour of the better classes monopolized the larger portion of the demand, inferior qualities being all but neglected. Indian Corn has had more attention, and the feeding qualities have realized 1s. ⅌ quarter more money; the weather has been broken, and some part of the harvest must have suffered considerably. At our Corn Exchange to-day the attendance was small. Wheat of fine quality sold in retail at the full prices of our last, but inferior and out-of-condition parcels were obtainable on easier terms. We quote White 6s. 6d.@8s. 2d.; Red 5s. 4d.@7s. ⅌ 70 ℔s. The deliveries of our own farmers for the week ending the 4th inst., are 101,510 qrs., against 84,300 qrs. the week previous, and 105,841 the corresponding week of 1857.

Flour—Prime qualities, from continued scarcity, sold at the extreme prices of our last, but the lower classes were neglected; we quote: Western Canal 19s. 6d.@22s.; Canadian, 21s.@23s.; Ohio, 21s.@23s.; Philadelphia and Baltimore, 21s. 6d.@24s. 6d. ⅌ bbl.

Indian Corn—Feeding qualities of White and Yellow sold to a fair extent at 6d.@1s. ⅌ quarter advance; the finer descriptions maintained last quotations; we quote White 33s.@34s. 6d.; Yellow 33s. 6d.@34s.

Cotton—A much better demand has been experienced for Cotton through the week, and, with an improved feeling in the manufactcring districts, Spinners have bought freely; the more useful descriptions of American realized ⅛d. ⅌ ℔. advance; other classes hardly shared in the improvement. Sales of the week 67,960 bales, of which the trade have taken 54,570, speculators 4,630, and exporters 8,760 bales; the import is 41,655 bales. The sales to-day reach 12,000 on speculation and for export, the market closing very steadily.

Provisions—Beef; the sales this week are to a moderate extent, say 389 tcs., the demand running principally on common classes, say Prime Mess 90s.@95s., of which the stock is becoming light. In India Mess we know of but few transactions, say 50 tcs. Hough's, at 110s., a few Alburgher's at 115s., and some "Moore and Severn's" at about 105s. We quote extra Prime Mess 102s. 6d.@107s. 6d.; Prime Mess 95s.@100s.; Ordinary 85s.@92s. 6d.; India Mess 100s.@115s. Our stock is now about 7,500 tcs., and consists principally of India Mess. Pork—The transactions have been few, principally at 75s. ⅌ bbl. Bacon—The demand for Bacon has not been so good, many of our Irish buyers going to the London market to supply themselves, as the prices there are some 2s. below ours. We quote Short Middles, rib in, 45s.@48s.; Long Middles, boneless, 46s.@48s.—rib in, 44s.@46s.; Cumberland Cut 38s.@45s. Hams and Shoulders are selling but slowly, at 36s.@39s. for the former, and 32s.@33s. 6d. for the latter. Lard has not had so much attention, the sales, which are of a retail character, reaching but 20 to 30 tons, at 61s.@62s. 6d. ⅌ cwt. Cheese—The demand is good, for anything in good condition, but inferior and out-of-condition parcels are unsalable. Middling is worth 38s.@45s.; Ordinary 20s.@32s., ⅌ cwt.

Tallow—Continues in good demand, the inquiry being principally for South American and European, at 52s.@52s. 6d. for the former, and 52s. for the latter. We quote North American 51s.@52s. ⅌ cwt.

Quercitron Bark—About 550 bags of Baltimore have been sold at 7s., and 40 hhds. Philadelphia at 9s. 6d.@10s. ℔ cwt.

Naval Stores—Rough Turpentine—About 2,500 bbls. have been sold at 10s.@10s. 3d. ⅌ cwt. Spirits of Turpentine—Sales of 300 bbls. are reported on the spot and to arrive, at 36s.@38s. ⅌ cwt. Resin—The sales reach 7,000 bbls. at 4s. 1d.@4s. 2d. for common; 8s. 3d. for medium, and up to 19s. for extra fine.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE TRIBUNE MERCANTILE ADVERTISER.—We propose to issue, on the 1st day of October next, the second number of THE TRIBUNE MERCANTILE ADVERTISER. It will be issued monthly hereafter, and devoted exclusively to the interests and uses of the Mercantile public, on the following plan:

I. It will contain full reports of the MARKETS, with such other COMMERCIAL and MONEY INTELLIGENCE as shall be deemed of special interest to Merchants.

II. It will be sent without charge by mail, postage prepaid, to 50,000 COUNTRY MERCHANTS who buy goods in New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore or Boston. The names will be selected by Messrs. McKillop & Wood, from those recorded on the books of their Commercial Agency, and they guarantee that not less than 50,000 shall be sent, this being the full number of Country Merchants that they consider it desirable thus to address.

III. The total expense will be defrayed by MERCANTILE ADVERTISING, for which ONE DOLLAR per line will be charged. Those who require their advertisements to be displayed will make special bargains therefor.

It is believed that no equal opportunity for addressing Country Merchants was ever offered in the United States, even at double or treble the cost of this. This sheet is intended for Merchants alone, and will contain no other matter than such as is adapted to their wants. We have every facility for making a MERCANTILE ADVERTISER that will deserve the approbation of Merchants, and we respectfully invite their coöperation. Advertisements received at THE TRIBUNE Office. If by letter, address HORACE GREELEY & CO.,

Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway.

PUBLISHED THIS MORNING.
THE JULIA.

By the author of "Vara," and "Nellie of Truro." 12mo. $1.

From the Louisville Journal.

The author of "Vara" does not need much of an introduction or of commendation beyond the merits of that delightful book, to which we endeavored to do justice at the time of its first appearance. * * * * The author is an admirable delineator of character, and of scenery, and is unquestionably an earnest and devoted lover of the Bible and its fruits.

From the Rochester American.

We do not know who this author is, or whether IT be a man or woman, but we do know the power and influence of the books put forth under his imprimatur. "Vara" was the prettiest book of the last three years—a simple, beautiful, religious story, that won every reader.

THE SHEEPFOLD AND THE COMMON;
OR,
THE EVANGELICAL RAMBLER.

Illustrated with 16 fine Engravings, royal 12mo, $1 25.

From the Scotch Magazine.

Evangelical Religion is here presented in her most engaging forms. The language in which she expresses herself is exceedingly pure, and often finely classical; the charity that thinketh no evil presides over every scene, and the love of truth and of souls permeates the work from first to last. * * * * A comprehensive Christianity guides the reader from one fascinating point to another, till, on concluding, he is constrained to admit that the execution of the work is worthy of its object.

THE ATTENTION OF TRADE IS INVITED to the WOVEN EXTENSION SKIRT, with adjustable bustle, which is, beyond question, superior to all others. The springs, being woven in the tape, cannot rip, which has been a great objection to all sewed skirts. This improvement needs only to be seen to meet with ready sale, as it certainly is the very best skirt made. Nothing but the best tempered steel will be used in the manufacture, and every skirt guaranteed perfect. None genuine unless stamped The Woven Skirt.

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

The subscriber, for many years connected with the Julien Hotel, and lately proprietor thereof, takes this method of informing his friends and the traveling public, that he has, on the 10th of April, A. C., purchased the interest of Mr. D. Julien in the above establishment.

It has, since the consummation of that purchase, been the aim of the subscriber to put his House in complete order, and the same is now thoroughly repaired, repainted, and has been, wherever necessary, refurnished. Water-cisterns, heaters, a separate entrance for ladies, and, in short, whatever was required to bring the Hotel upon an equal footing with the best establishments, has been supplied. The kitchen and lower departments of the house have also received the most untiring attention, and the proprietor feels convinced that he is enabled to provide for his guests in even a better manner than he was at his former hotel, and cheerfully gives the assurance, that at all times his whole attention will be devoted to their comforts, and no pains or expense spared to render his House a quiet residence for families as well as single gentlemen. DANCING.

A. DODWORTH'S
DANCING ACADEMIES,
No. 806 Broadway, New-York,
No. 137 Montague-place, Brooklyn,
Will commence in New-York on SATURDAY, Sept. 25;
in Brooklyn, FRIDAY, Sept. 24.

Mr. DODWORTH would take occasion to say that he has long felt the necessity of introducing a system of instruction for the use of the younger pupils, by which the exercise of dancing would be of more benefit physically, and more useful in the development of graceful movement, than it has been of late years. The facility with which the Polka and similar dances of the present time are acquired, has induced many to neglect those exercises that were formerly indispensable. To that neglect, as one of the causes, may be attributed the appearance of so many round-shouldered young misses of the present generation. They are sent to school, and allowed to stoop over their desks without intermediate exercise, until the growing frame assumes the position in which it has been so long restrained; they are then sent to a teacher of dancing, with the expectation that by learning the Polka, Scottische and a few other dances, all this will be remedied, and that they will at once become graceful women. Surely these things should be better understood. Were children sent to dancing early in life, at intervals during their necessary studies, and the teacher allowed to exercise them in such a manner, and in such dances (in addition to the fashionable ones) as would add grace to the figure, walk, and every movement, something would then be gained consistent with the true object of this valuable accomplishment. Anxious to restore the art to its former usefulness, Mr. Dodworth instructed his classes in that acknowledged graceful study, the "Minuet de la Cœur," and other dances of similar usefulness. The evident success of this course in its effect upon the pupils encouraged him to give more attention to Dancing as connected with Calisthenics; and, during his late tour through Germany, France and Great Britain, he made it his business to call upon the most prominent teachers, and consult with them in regard to the best method of accomplishing those desirable results. He hopes, therefore, to have gained such information as will, in addition to his own experience, enable him to present to his pupils a system that will not only make them dance the Polka, but will improve their health, figure and walk, and consequently have a salutary effect upon every movement in life.

During his European tour of this season, Mr. Dodworth has had favorable opportunities of studying the peculiar dances of Poland and Hungary so popular at the present time in Vienna. Some of these, with other novelties, will be introduced at the earliest moment of the present season.

Circulars may be had at either Academy.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Galway steamer Prince Albert, which left Galway on the 14th inst., with three days' later advices from Europe, is now fully due at Halifax. She had not been heard from at 9 o'clock last night.

We publish this morning a card from CYRUS W. FIELD, Esq., to the Associated Press, in which he is disposed to doubt the reliability of the dispatch published yesterday morning in reference to the perfect working of the Atlantic Cable. The dispatch came from the Superintendent of the land lines in Newfoundland, and was sent in good faith; but inasmuch as Mr. DE SAUTY, the Chief Electrician at Trinity Bay, is the only person who has full knowlege of all the facts, the announcement made is considered "premature." Special inquiries have been made of Mr. DE SAUTY by Mr. FIELD, and by the Honorary Directors of the Company in this City, and his answers are promised for publication without unnecessary delay.—P. S.—Just as we were going to press we received the response of Mr. DE SAUTY to Mr. FIELD's inquiries, in which he states that nothing intelligible has been received through the Cable since the 1st of September, except feeling a few signals on Thursday. He finds it impossible to send anything to Valentia. The surmises of Mr. FIELD are, therefore, correct.

Opinions yesterday were about equally balanced respecting the identity of the burning steamer seen on the 15th instant in mid-ocean, by the bark Arabian and Rosenheath—one portion appearing to think it was the British steamer Alps, which left this port with a light freight and no passengers on the 5th instant; and others, that it was the new Hamburg steamer Austria, which left Southampton for New-York on the 4th inst. with 420 passengers and a large quantity of freight. The fact that the Captain of the Rosenheath, at Halifax, sticks to his statement that the burning vessel had a working beam above deck, favors the idea that it was not the Austria, which has a direct acting engine, with no working beam, while the Alps has a cross-deck working beam on her second deck which might be visible. Both, however, have bottoms painted red, like the mysterious steamer. The Austria being overdue about five or six days, excites fears for her safety, independent of these painful rumors. She has a crew of about 100 persons, and as she may have received twenty or thirty steerage passengers at Southampton, her whole complement must have been some 550 souls. The stupidity, or worse—the culpable neglect of the Captains who commanded the two Scotch vessels, in passing a large steamer on fire with so little effort to ascertain her identity or the fate of her passengers—is severely commented upon everywhere. The Prince Albert, from Galway, which sailed on the 14th, is now due at St. Johns, Newfoundland, and may bring tidings which will decide the question as to what steamer has been destroyed. Large premiums were yesterday offered for insurance on the cargo of the Austria, but were refused.

The ceremony of laying the corner-stone of the State Inebriate Asylum took place at Binghamton yesterday, and notwithstanding the weather was bad, the occasion attracted a large crowd, and was one of much interest. Addresses were made by various distinguished gentlemen, and in the evening Mr. EVERETT delivered his oration on "Washington."

The Commissioners who were appointed last year to remove the Quarantine from its present location, have just presented a scheme to the Governor, according to our Albany dispatches, which rather excels in impracticable extravagance any plan that has yet been proposed. This new scheme involves the construction of several inclosures, or "basins," in the Lower Bay, inside of which floating hospitals are to be moored to receive the sick. It is alleged that the basins can be easily, cheaply, and speedily constructed, and therefore the Commissioners are opposed to the re-erection of hospitals on the old grounds. The idea of constructing basins in an open bay where the water is nowhere shallower than ten feet at low water, we must acknowledge is startling. The scheme is wild and impracticable. In the meantime the Health Commissioners are making preparations to build the necessary hospitals on the old ground, and they will probably not be induced to hold back by this new movement on the part of the Commissioners for removing the Quarantine.

The Commissioners of Health met at noon yesterday. Dr. THOMPSON stated that the cases of sickness reported on board the steamer Alabama, were not yellow fever, and upon his recommendation a stream permit was granted her. Other uninteresting business was transacted and the Board adjourned.

Most of the Republican Congressional and Assembly Nominating Conventions met in their respective Districts, last evening, pursuant to the call of the Central Committee. No nominations were made. Several of the Conventions appointed Committees to confer with the American Party, with a view to a fusion, and the others adjourned without taking any action.

The trial of General Superintendent TALLMADGE was continued yesterday before the Police Commissioners, and adjourned till Monday morning. Among the witnesses examined were Capt. RICH and Mr. BREVOORT.

An excitement was caused on Thursday afternoon by the discovery of a corpse, in a decomposed state, which had been boxed up and placed in the hold of the bark C. C. Fowler, bound for New-Orleans. The body was inclosed in two coffins—one mahogany, the other zinc—and these were placed inside an ordinary pine packing box. The mystery of the affair was solved yesterday by the appearance at the Coroner's office of a Scotchman named WINTER, who stated that deceased was his wife, whom he had transported in that way from Glasgow, Scotland, where she had died, and that the only reason he had for shipping the body in the clandestine manner which had excited suspicion, was to save expense, as he proposed to take the remains to his home in Alabama. The Coroner was satisfied with the story, and delivered the corpse to Mr. WINTER, who immediately reshipped it for Mobile.

A woman named MARY MCINTYRE was murdered by her husband, MICHAEL MCINTYRE, at No. 62 James-street, on Thursday morning last. Upon the Coroner's investigation, yesterday, the evidence showed that MCINTYRE caught his wife in the act of adultery with a man named MICHAEL O'KEEFE, and in his anger he wrenched the leg from a table and commenced an assault upon the guilty ones, which resulted in the fracture of the woman's skull, when congestion of the brain supervened and she died. A verdict in accordance with these facts was rendered, and MCINTYRE was committed to await the action of the Grand Jury.

JAMES MCCOY, indicted jointly with WILLIAM HUNTER for the breaking into the store of DATER & Co., No. 161 Front-street, on April 19, was tried yesterday in the Court of General Sessions, and convicted. Sentence was deferred till to-day. JOHN DONNELLY and CHARLES O'REILLY pleaded guilty to assault and battery. Sentence deferred. To-day, "Billy Mulligan" will be sentenced for the assault on Mr. WEBB, of the San Francisco Vigilance Committee. It is understood that Judge RUSSELL intends to vindicate the majesty of the law, and inflict the highest penalty in his power, as becomes the City Judge.

A colored woman, named MARY ANN GREEN, was instantly killed at No. 113 Ewen-street, Brooklyn, yesterday, by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of her son, 10 years old.

The General Markets, yesterday, were very firm for Cotton, of which 2,500 bales were sold. Flour and Corn were in good request at somewhat better prices. Wheat was held above the views of buyers and was inactive. Provisions were depressed. Groceries and Naval Stores were less freely dealt in. Other branches of trade presented no really new feature.

Municipal Corruption.

The fresh exposure of frauds in the financial department of the City Government is exciting, as usual, great indignation, and the thieves and peculators of the City Hall are receiving their quarterly castigation on all sides. High-minded and honorable men, as usual, are solemnly invoked to take office and save us, and decent voters are being solemnly exhorted to go to the polls. We must confess that we are surprised that the public should not know by this time, that nothing will induce anybody who is not a professional politician or a great rogue, to accept any post in the gift of the City. This is not the first time that frauds have been discovered in the Taxes and Assessments Office, and every other office of the municipality. There is not a man in the City who has been made a whit surer by the reports of Committees of the fact that the most flagrant robberies are perpetrated upon the treasury every week. We all knew it years ago, as well as we know it now. Our position, so far as we can see, is not much improved by being made acquainted with the precise amounts which the thieves have pocketed, or the precise period at which their depredations took place.

The fact of the matter is—and it is just as well that our citizens should begin to digest it at once, and we recommend it to the attention of the proposed "Tax-payers Party"—that as long as the standard of fitness for office is not either skill or honesty, but something totally different, the persons who fill offices will be neither honest nor skillful. We may as well make up our mind to this. As long as public servants are selected without the slightest reference to their moral character, or their special adaptation to the duties they are expected to perform, it is driveling folly and something worse, to keep up a perennial moaning over their knavery.' Nor, is there much good sense displayed in denouncing the knaves themselves. They act as knaves always will act when temptation is thrown in their way. We cannot charge them with pretences; they have not abused our confidence. They were rogues before we took them into our employments, and we knew it. Why should we be so absurd as to suppose, or seem to suppose, that the oath of office possesses some sacramental efficacy, and ought to convert a Ward politician, bred in trickery, living by tricks and dodges, into an honorable, upright man?

The idea even, upon which alone the efficiency or purity of the public service must be based, that there rests upon all who have offices in their gift a solemn moral obligation to give them to those who will and can most faithfully fill them, has long ago been eradicated from the public mind. In theory, it is one of the fundamental principles of republican governments; in practice, it receives from politicians about as little attention as a speculation touching the moon's atmosphere, or the nebular hypothesis. Any one who would go into a convention now-a-days, whether city or State, and begin to preach such a doctrine gravely, would be laughed at as an amiable simpleton. In short, unpleasant as it may be to ponder over, the fact is unquestionable that electioneering activity and influence are the only things taken into account when a man applies for a public situation. His real fitness is never thought of. A vigorous and energetic partisan is considered, even by those who most denounce the prevailing corruption, to have claims upon a successful candidate which it is base to evade or overlook. The Tribune, for instance, among others in this City, were pretty sharp in their reprehension of Mayor TIEMANN after his election last Fall, because he did not appoint more Republicans to City offices, not because Republicans were more competent to fill them than other people, but because they helped to elect him. A correspondence went the rounds of the papers a few days ago, between Mr. SCHELL, the Collector, and the Members of Congress from this District, which might well have caused the public face to flush with shame, if the public had any shame left. It contained a deliberate and matter-of-course request from SCHELL to the Representatives to send him in a list of persons they wished to be appointed to offices in the Custom-House, and also a list of those they wished to be turned out. Not an allusion was made, or meant, to the real qualifications of those who were to be thus appointed or ejected. It was simply and purely an offer on the part of SCHELL, to quarter on the public, for a limited period, as many prize-fighters, shoulder-hitters, grogshop-keepers, tricksters and intriguers as the members should conceive to have most contributed to their election. It would be absurd to specify any more instances of this sort. The system is well known, and it embraces every one, from the President of the United States to the porter or bell-ringer in the City Hall. Everybody knows of its existence as well as we, and yet we have a monthly clasping of hands and turning up of eyes, because officials do not possess qualities and qualifications which they never professed to have, and were not expected or required to have. Would any merchant or shopkeeper in New-York seek his clerks, or even his cartmen, amongst Ward politicians, or amongst the frequenters of the Pewter Mug? If he did so, would not all his friends feel certain that his business would be neglected, his safe robbed, and false entries made in his books? and would they not laugh at him if he made a great uproar, and professed to be greatly shocked on discovery that such was the case? What is there, we should like to know, about City funds, or City books, or City business generally, which renders them a less tempting field for the operations of a thief than those of a banker or commission merchant?

They are not thieves and swindlers, we repeat, that we have to denounce. They don't care a straw for leading articles or public opinion. As long as the police do not form unfavorable conclusions about them, they reck little of the invectives of the Press. If we choose to select them to manage our affairs, in full knowledge of their character, it is ridiculous to abuse them for not changing their ways. The wretched code of morals which has placed party ties in a higher rank than honor or patriotism, and taught young men entering public life that they owe more to the caucus which nominates them than to either God or their country, ought to be the real and great object of our execrations. As soon as we shall have succeeded in convincing Presidents, Mayors and Street Commissioners, that the appointment of public servants is a trust as sacred as any other in life, and demands as much conscientiousness and integrity, we shall have made some progress towards municipal purity, but not till then, we greatly fear.

The Disagreement Question.

Some of the Republican and American journals still think it worth while to inquire who was to blame for the failure to unite those parties at Syracuse. In answer to certain suggestions of the Essex County Republican, (an American organ,) Mr. THURLOW WEED thus defines his position in the Evening Journal of the 21st instant:

> "The Essex Republican may not only 'almost' but wholly 'believe' that we sincerely desired and earnestly labored to effect a union of Republicans and Americans. It has not been our political habit to profess one thing and mean another. Nor have either friends or opponents been in doubt as to our views of men and measures.
> We desired a union, because the time had arrived when one might have been formed without any compromise of principle by either Party, and because, a conflict between two parties agreeing substantially in sentiment, and desiring the overthrow of a common enemy, is an impeachment of the good sense at least, if not the patriotism of both.
> We desired a union, because in the approaching Presidential Election, the Democracy, now in possession of the power and patronage of the Government, can only be ejected by a concentration of all the elements of opposition.
> We desired a union in this State, because Republicans and Americans are united in other States; and because here, as in those States, 'in union there is strength.'
> We desired a union, because 'history teaching by example,' proves that the worst political evils our country has experienced, were the results of divisions among those who ought to have acted together.
>
> We desired a union with Americans, because, in our large cities, a class of Adopted Citizens, constituting full three-fourths of the Democracy, have united against the Republican Party.
> We desired a union, because the Election frauds perpetrated, year after year, in New-York, Brooklyn and other cities, have become so enormous that the ballot-boxes cease to reflect the sentiment of the electors; and because a union of Republicans and Americans is required, both now and in the contemplated Constitutional Election, to guard against wholesale corruption. There is no security for the country while the cities can overwhelm it by fraudulent voting. Unless the purity of the Elective Franchise can be secured, a Representative Government becomes, first a Farce, to conclude with a Tragedy. The present duty of the people—their first and last duty—is, while resisting the Extension of Slavery in the Territories, to guard, by stringent and practical Constitutional Provisions, against Fraudulent Voting in the State.

It is a part of the history of this case that the Republican and American Conference Committees united in reporting to their respective Conventions the following propositions as the basis of united action in the approaching election:

> "1. That we are opposed to the existence and extension of Slavery into the Territories of the United States.
> 2. That each State has the supreme, uncontrolled, and exclusive power to decide for itself, whether Slavery shall cease or continue within its limits.
> 3. That we agree upon the necessity of establishing a Registry Law in this State, to prevent frauds upon the ballot-box.
> 4. That the recent frauds committed in this State under the Naturalization Laws, induce us to believe that the time should be extended between the naturalization and the right to vote, to a period as long as is required of the non-residents from other States."

The American Convention adopted this report; the Republican Convention did not. The fact that Mr. WEED was a member of the latter may have led to the supposition that he influenced its action in this respect. This, it will be seen, he explicitly and pointedly denies, claiming to have labored "sincerely and earnestly" to effect a union. It now remains for those who deem the inquiry important, to ascertain what leader is justly chargeable with the result. Doubtless such an investigation would be neither tedious nor difficult. It may be assumed that the Republican Convention contained but few delegates sufficiently influential to defeat an object on which Mr. WEED had earnestly and sincerely set his heart.

Expansion of Russia.

At the very moment we learn from the China Seas of the spread of Russian authority to the very foot of the Great Wall, come the tidings of a corresponding movement toward the west. The port of Villafranca, upon the shore of Piedmont, within a dozen miles of the French frontier, has been leased for a term of twenty-two years, from the Sardinian Government, as a Russian naval dépôt. The town of Villafranca is itself unimportant. There are something less than 3,000 population in it, conducting a small fishery and a smaller trade; but the harbor is safe, commodious, and convenient—admitting of the erection of fitting docks and workshops—and sufficiently capacious to shelter thirty ships of the line. Already the inhabitants of the place have had notice of the transfer of the port to the sovereignty of the Czar; and the troops, officials, and material, of Sardinia, have been removed to Nice, which is but two miles distant. The agents of the Government of St. Petersburg are in possession.

Since the overthrow of Sebastopol, following the destruction of the Black Sea fleet, it has been a capital object of the Russians to secure some "coign of vantage," whence to make a fresh start towards maritime equality in the Mediterranean and Euxine. Under the conditions of recent peace, the measure could not be carried out on the old theatre of enterprise. The reëdification of Sebastopol would have brought all Europe to arms. To avoid scandal, and lay suspicion, while moving with steady energy toward a determined aim, has been the motive of the present step; and this distant acquisition there is reason for believing will prove the nucleus of a larger naval development than that Government has ever before projected. While at the same moment the shipwrights of the New World are bidden to construct such gigantic specimens of naval architecture as the Grand Admiral, and vast ship-yards and work-shops, exceeding, it is represented, the largest elsewhere in the world are springing up in the recent wilderness at the mouth of the Amoor, and this new enterprise is started in the Mediterranean, right in the midst of naval competition, we have the strongest evidence that Russia is, for the first time, entering earnestly into the contest for the sovereignty of the seas.

The Sage of Binghamton.

Although the Hon. D. S. DICKINSON was remorselessly slaughtered by the Softs at Syracuse, he finds some sympathy in South Carolina. An article which we copy from the Charleston Mercury not only does him justice as a supporter of "The Constitutional rights of the South on the subject of Slavery," but touchingly bewails the fate to which his course has consigned him. Mr. DICKINSON's luck is certainly hard. For standing firmly upon the original platform of his party he is sentenced to perpetual banishment from office and influence. Year by year the Soft Democracy is increasing in power, and their hatred of the Hards keeps pace fully with the advancement of their preponderance.

Until recently Mr. DICKINSON's admirers cherished hopes of the Charleston nomination for their favorite. But such hopes must now cease. They were finally extinguished at Syracuse. The South could be well content to take Mr. D. with the support of his own State; it will not touch him without. The Charleston Mercury may mourn over this state of things; it cannot alter it.

THE MYSTERY OF THE ATLANTIC CABLE.—Ever since the first announcement of the landing of the Telegraph Cable at Trinity Bay was made, the whole subject has been involved in mystery, and the public have never been fairly and candidly informed of the actual condition of things at the two telegraphic stations. We have an announcement that the Cable is in perfect working order and will in a few days be opened to the public for the transaction of business. After this we have a profound silence of nearly three weeks, during which not a word of apology or explanation is vouchsafed to the public. An announcement is then made which dampens the ardor and nearly extinguishes the enthusiasm of the public, who have, on the slightest intimations, thrown up their caps with ecstacy, at the prospect of being put in communication with the shores of Europe. We are informed that signals have ceased at Trinity Bay, and the electricians at Cyrus Station have come to the saddening conclusion that the cable has either parted or become injured at about 240 (!) miles from the landing at Valentia. This information is so alarmingly exact that it is generally believed. The very next day we are informed that the cable is all right again, that signals are passing from shore to shore, and that probably the Telegraph will be ready for business in a few weeks. We enjoy this news for a few hours, when comes to us a telegraphic dispatch—not from our regular news agent, however, dated at Trinity Bay, Sept. 24, stating that the dispatch of the day before was all wrong, that no signals had been received, as reported, and that the previous bad news was right. So we stand for the present. The Atlantic Cable is all a muddle, and the electricians at Trinity Bay appear to be determined that no satisfactory messages shall come from them.

But the honorary Directors in this City have at last given signs that they are not altogether satisfied with the whimsical conduct of the manager at Trinity Bay, and, together with Mr. FIELD, they have addressed a very sharp dispatch to Mr. DE SAUTY, demanding a more frank and explicit style of communications than he has been in the habit of giving to the public. Mr. FIELD, it will be seen, confirms the truth of the dispatch to which we have alluded in relation to the incorrectness of the reports of the 24th.

ADVICE FROM OHIO.—The Cincinnati Gazette makes the following suggestion in relation to the failure of the Republican and American State Conventions to unite:

> "If we mistake not, the hand of certain prominent politicians is quite too clearly seen in this intrigue for their own good. The people will remember those who have so zealously labored to thwart their will. Nor will these caucus managers be able always to have things in their own way. This kind of management will surely fail of its object in the end. It would be wise for the mass of Opposition voters, at once to defeat this nice scheme for throwing power into Administration hands, by making up, from the two sets of nominees presented, one united ticket, and electing it by the overwhelming majority they really have on their side in New-York. They may thus the more readily carry this union into the several Congressional Districts, securing the return of a delegation strongly opposed to the present Administration."

Such a course might be wise, but it is manifestly impracticable. The mass of voters of any party cannot accomplish such a movement as the Gazette suggests on the eve of an election.

QUARANTINE AT BOSTON.—It is getting too late in the season for Boston to run an opposition to New-York on the score of Quarantine. Judging from the frequent mention of yellow fever vessels at anchor near Deer Island during the last two months, our Boston neighbors have been fully as careful of their health as we have. But the Boston Traveller learns that a schooner "is loading at Quarantine, New-York, with 800 bales of cotton for Boston. The cotton was consigned to a New-York house, but owing to the stringent Quarantine regulations was ordered to Boston." The Traveller also learns "that from the same reason, freights from Charleston and Savannah to Boston have increased, and cargoes, which otherwise would have gone to New-York, have been ordered here."

Academy of Music.

Next to the positive novelty of an opera entirely new, the freshest work at the command of a management is undoubtedly "William Tell." The peculiarity of its construction and the vast resources it calls into play, place it beyond the reach of a mean company, and even with the best of aids it demands a wearisome amount of rehearsal, which can seldom be bestowed on it. Mr. MARETZEK produced this work some years ago with decided success, and revived it again last night. The cast was good, the chorus augmented and the orchestra enlarged for the occasion. An apology was made up for Signor STEFFANI, and once or twice during the evening it became evident that it was necessary. On the whole, however, this gentleman acquitted himself with wonderful facility, particularly in the duet of the first act and the trio of the second. He seems to have studied the part with a clear understanding of its dramatic bearings, and was in consequence as earnest and impassioned as ever. Madame MARETZEK was the Mathilde, and sang with artistic skill and delicacy. There is no reason why this lady should not be heard more often. Signor GASSIER makes an excellent Tell, and compares more than favorably with BADIALI, who was great in this rôle. There are a great number of small, unimportant parts in this Opera, which were distributed last night more or less satisfactorily. In the ballet department everything was first-rate. Mlle. LAMOUREUX, one of the most charming of dancers, was received heartily, and danced with superb finish and elegance. Other members of the Ronzani troupe were received with equal favor, and merited every hand that was raised in their applause. The ballet alone was a marked and admirable feature in the performance.

The revival of ROSSINI's masterpiece was decidedly successful, and will, we doubt not, enjoy a prosperous run to the end of the season. When Signor STEFFANI shall have recovered from his present indisposition, he will easily eclipse all his predecessors in the rôle of Arnoldo. There will be a grand matinée here to-day, with the "Barbiere" and Mme. GASSIER, &c.

BURTON'S THEATRE.—Mme. COLSON will play her famous character of Violetta, in the "Traviata," to-night, for the last time.

HOYM'S THEATRE.—It must not be forgotten that to-night will be the last of the engagement of ZAVISTOWSKI's Juvenile Ballet and Pantomime Troupe. They appear in Newark on Monday next, and we can safely promise our New-Jersey neighbors a "new sensation."

Political.

The St. Louis Republican of the 22d inst., understands that Vice-President BRECKINRIDGE favors the reëlection of DOUGLAS, and openly declares his readiness to go to Illinois to assist him in the canvass.

The report that the Hon. WASHINGTON HUNT supports the Republican State ticket is very positively pronounced erroneous. He will, it is said, vote the American nominations.

☞ General WINFIELD SCOTT, who is now stopping at West Point, met with a severe accident last week. He was about attending a dinner-party given by Colonel DELAFIELD, when, on going down the stairs, his foot slipped, and he fell to the bottom. Owing to the bullet in his shoulder, and the sword wound in his arm, he was unable to arrest his flight and the fall was severe. The General was taken to his bed, cupped and leeched, and though he feels better, he is still suffering intense pain.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Rev. WILLIAM CATHCART, of Second Baptist Church in Philadelphia, has issued a sermon against Union Prayer Meetings, now so popular. He warns the members of his own sect against them. He deprecates the idea that his flock should ever sit down to the table of the Lord with "unbaptized Christians," as he calls the Episcopalians, Dutch Reformed and others. He argues that his brethren should make no compromise with any sect; and as the Baptist "hold the truth in everything," all things should be avoided that retard the growth of that body to whom such large gifts have been vouchsafed.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Boston are about to erect a large hall for their purposes. The great tent in Jersey City is spread every Sabbath under the direcion of the Christian Association, and is crowded three times a day with an audience varying from 600 to 1,000. A strong effort is being made on the part of some gentlemen to have the Methodist preachers read their sermons, and to the custom the opposition is intense.

The annual meeting of the Fulton-street Prayer-Meeting was held in the North Dutch Church on Thursday. The house was crowded. But the exercises were less impressive than usual. The meeting was long. It was formal—men were called out by name to speak, having been invited previously—and the address and prayer lacked that spice, pungency, piety and power that have made their meetings so remarkable and attractive.

The Rev. Mr. CARDEN, who has been silenced by the Right Rev. BISHOP DOANE, for inviting a Methodist clergyman to assist in the service of communion at Cape May, was one of the main supporters of the Union Prayer Meetings at Janes' Hall, in Philadelphia; and his suspension is supposed to be connected quite as much with the Hall as with his conduct at the communion table.

In all the South a strong feeling prevails to reunite the Old and New School of the Presbyterian Church. It has been practically begun in Bowling Green, in Kentucky. Pastors of both societies have had an amicable dismission, the New School have joined the Old, and a new pastor is to be settled over the united congregations.

The Rev. Dr. ADDISON ALEXANDER has just completed a new commentary on the Gospel of St. Mark. It is understood that he will continue his labors till the Gospels and the Epistles have passed under his pen.

The First Reformed Dutch Church of Newark have again called the Rev. JOHN GASTON, and on the second call Mr. GASTON has given an affirmative answer.

Personal.

A story about the "Dauphin" WILLIAMS appears in the Buffalo Commercial, to the effect that, many years ago, the reverend gentleman applied to an Oneida Soothsayer, to know whether his claims would be acknowledged, and when. The prophet told him that the time would come when they would be admitted, should WILLIAMS live long enough. "You will live long," said the prophet, "as long as this house shall stand; but that you will live until the day and the hour shall come, I cannot say." The teacher glanced at the solid timbers of his house with exultation, asking no longer time for life than should be acceded to the solid walls that encompassed him. It is said that this house was torn down on the day of WILLIAMS' death. He had not lived long enough to solve the mystery.

The sculptor HART has finished his model of the statue of HENRY CLAY, ordered by the Clay Monumental Association of New-Orleans. The likeness is said to be perfect. The model goes from Florence to Munich, where it will be cast in bronze, and the inauguration will probably take place in New-Orleans on the anniversary of Mr. CLAY's birthday in 1860.

An irate lady, a Mrs. LYONS, inflicted corporeal punishment upon the editor of a flash sheet in Cincinnati, a day or two ago. The Town Talk having made her the town talk, she flogged Mr. HENRY FROST in the street, and made him the talk of the town.

The literary women of Paris have given a purely feminine banquet to Mrs. HARRIET BEECHER STOWE. Gentlemen were rigorously excluded. Crinoline and woman's rights had it all their own way, and the affair is said to have been very pleasant.

Mr. WM. H. ASPINWALL, who was announced as one of the Vice-Presidents at the meeting in Richmond on Quarantine matters, was in Rhode Island at the time. The use of his name was wholly unauthorized.

Obituary.

The death of JOSE DE GARAY, as already announced, took place suddenly, in this City, on the 21st inst. Señor GARAY was a native of Mexico, and was born on the 21st day of September, 1801, and died, having attained the age of 57 years, upon the anniversary of his birthday. He was descended from one of the most distinguished families of Spain, and has occupied many important posts in his country. He was well known in the United States, not only as a gentleman of distinguished ability, but as the projector of the Tehuantepec Transit route, for which he obtained the grant from SANTA ANNA, in 1841. The first grant having expired by limitation, before its terms had been fulfilled, DE GARAY succeeded in 1846 in having it renewed by MAIAANO SALAS, then Dictator. He has been closely identified with the movement for opening this route across the American Continent from the first inception of the plan, and may be said to have almots lived to see his long-cherished enterprise successfully accomplished. He leaves a son and daughter, and, also, several relatives living in France. His decease will in no way interfere with the success of plans now far advanced towards maturity, for opening the communication across the Mexican Isthmus.

From Turk's Island.

By the arrival of the ship Sarah Marsh, Capt. EMERY, we have received advices from Turk's Island to Sept. 7. The news is unimportant, except that President VALVERDE and suite, comprising the ex-Ministers of State, and Finance and War, had arrived at Turk's Island on the 3d inst. from Port-au-Platte, having left their families at Santiago.

It was rumored that SANTANA had expressed regret at the flight of VALVERDE, and had sent to him an invitation to return to Santiago.

RACES AT FASHION COURSE POSTPONED.—The wet weather yesterday spoiled the sport at the Fashion Course. The races which were announced to take place there were postponed to Monday next, when the sweepstakes for all ages, four-mile heats, and the other races which were to have taken place yesterday, will come off. A great deal of disappointment was expressed by the sporting men who assembled at the Course in the morning.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.—The U. S. sloop-of-war Dale was at Porto Praya, Aug. 17, all well. She was to sail soon for a cruise on the southern coast of Africa. One of the seamen was sent home in the store-ship Release, which arrived at Boston on Monday, upon a charge of some criminal offence.

PLAN FOR THE REMOVAL OF QUARAN[illegible]

Report of the Commissioners Appoint[illegible] the Last Legislature.

ALBANY, Friday, Sep[illegible]

GEORGE HALL, of Brooklyn, EGBERT B[illegible] New-York, and OBADIAH BROWN, of Staten [illegible] Commissioners for the removal of Quarantin[illegible] vened here to-day for the purpose of prese[illegible] plan for the removal of Quarantine to Governor [illegible] the Lieutenant-Governor and the Comptroller, [illegible] have supervision over the selection of a site. Th[illegible] up all idea of locating the Quarantine on la[illegible] propose to construct a series of basins in the [illegible] bay, in which floating hospitals can lie at [illegible] still as in the Liverpool docks. Each vessel [illegible] a hospital is to be in a separate basin, so as [illegible] apart the different diseases. The plan is indo[illegible] the leading medical men of New-York, and is b[illegible] to be practicable and economical.

The basins can be constructed very speedily [illegible] completed, the Commissioners believe, with the [illegible] now on hand to their credit in the Comptroll[illegible] partment. They are prepared with estimates [illegible] cost from engineers of the highest responsibil[illegible] is also proposed by the Commissioners to go [illegible] first principles and make Quarantine simply a [illegible] institution, separating from it all stevedoring, [illegible] ing and other speculative business by which [illegible] penses and profits of Quarantine have been sw[illegible] such vast proportions, and leaving all such [illegible] tions to private enterprise and competition, su[illegible] proper legal restriction.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE [illegible] MOVAL OF THE QUARANTINE STAT[illegible]
NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Sept. 14, 18[illegible]

To the Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor [illegible] Comptroller:

GENTLEMEN: The occurrences of the past few [illegible] at the Quarantine station at Tompkinsville [illegible] action on our part, which under other circum[illegible] we should have postponed till the meeting [illegible] Legislature.

The port of New-York is now without an eff[illegible] Quarantine, and the responsibility of providing [illegible] commodations for those sick of imported pestil[illegible] diseases presents itself to us with renewed force[illegible] accordingly respectfully submit the following [illegible] sition for an entire removal of the Quarantine [illegible] to the lower bay and ask your assent thereto.

It will be seen by the accompanying stateme[illegible] experiments of physicians, among them ex-H[illegible] Officers and other Quarantine officials, that flo[illegible] hospitals are extensively used in Europe, whe[illegible] stillwater can be found, in which to anchor them. [illegible] is probably known to you, that floating [illegible] pitals have received the sanction of man[illegible] our leading merchants. Mr. MOSES H. G[illegible] NELL, among others, earnestly advised their [illegible] tion for temporary purposes. The popular idea [illegible] floating hospital supposes something in the natu[illegible] a ship, which all experience shows to be but little [illegible] ter than a charnel house, when once infected [illegible] yellow fever. Such is not the character of pro[illegible] constructed floating hospitals. When built as [illegible] should be, they have proved themselves superior [illegible] all others. A properly constructed floating hos[illegible] differs from a well-built house only in being a[illegible] instead of on land, and has the additional advan[illegible] of being entirely removed from all surrounding [illegible] jects, and constantly exposed to a free circulation [illegible] air.

The strong objection heretofore urged against [illegible] here has been that they could not be ancho[illegible] in the lower Bay of New-York, without expo[illegible] to the swell of the waves so frequently found th[illegible] and that it would be the excess of inhumanity to [illegible] mit the tempest-tossed invalid on his arrival in [illegible] a renewal of his previous sufferings by sea. [illegible] time this objection seemed fatal, but having been [illegible] ble to find a satisfactory site for quarantine on [illegible] our attention has been called to the feasibility [illegible] king land on one of the numerous shoals in the [illegible] er Bay.

Having satisfied ourselves in the course of this [illegible] vestigation that an outer framework or inclos[illegible] such a structure can be made permanent, the ch[illegible] left us between filling up the space so inclo[illegible] using it as a basin wherein to anchor floating ho[illegible] The latter course is cheapest and most expedi[illegible] and we advise it accordingly.

The experience of two years and the concur[illegible] testimony of the Health Officer, as shown in a [illegible] report to the Board of Health of New-York, [illegible] ciently demonstrates the security of the anch[illegible] in the Lower Bay, and the practice of the last Su[illegible] has proved that by the use of a steamboat, the H[illegible] Officer can board vessels at a distance of miles f[illegible] the hospitals as easily as when nearer. Al[illegible] hulks are used as temporary storehouses for [illegible] and the only remaining necessity, a wash-house, [illegible] be established on a hulk anchored at a safe dis[illegible] from the floating hospitals, and fitted up with all [illegible] necessary appliances for that branch of service.

All the above-proposed arrangements, together [illegible] such other minutes of details as are necessary [illegible] total removal of Quarantine, are cheap, within [illegible] means at our disposal, and capable of speedy [illegible] struction. We therefore beg leave to urge them [illegible] your attention, and earnestly ask your assent t[illegible] immediate prosecution of this plan for the remov[illegible] Quarantine from its present dangerous and unn[illegible] sary site.

All of which is respectfully submitted by your ob[illegible] dient servants.

For the Commissioners, by order of the Board.
GEORGE HALL, Chairma[illegible]

Mr. BOWNE made an argument in favor of the vi[illegible] of the Commissioners.

Governor KING, at the close of Mr. BOWNE's re[illegible] marks, stated his satisfaction at the ability of the [illegible] gument, and the novelty of the views advanced. [illegible] State Officers signified their intention to visit and [illegible] amine the proposed site and plans for a floating [illegible] pital on Wednesday of next week, and to deci[illegible] once on the proposition.

City Items.

AN INTERESTING RELIC.—Anything conn[illegible] with the Arctic Expedition of Dr. ELISHA KENT [illegible] possesses at this time a peculiar interest. It will [illegible] remembered that when the gallant band found [illegible] only chance for safety was to abandon the Ad[illegible] and trust their lives to the chance of reaching a [illegible] tlement in the little yawl, the Hope, that the fi[illegible] head of their gallant ship, which had breasted [illegible] many storms and ice-fields, was taken from its [illegible] and fastened to the prow of the frail boat, which [illegible] indeed their last and only hope. Nothing was allo[illegible] to be taken except what their necessities would [illegible] quire; but it was thought that this sole relic of [illegible] noble ship might perhaps be preserved, or if [illegible] would be useful for firewood. It was preserved [illegible] brought safely home, and presented by Dr. KA[illegible] his father, the late Judge KANE, of Philadelphia. [illegible] fore his death, Judge KANE, in a letter to some [illegible] tlemen who were then engaged in founding a M[illegible] Lodge, to be named "Kane Lodge," in honor of [illegible] illustrious and zealous brother, Doctor KANE, wh[illegible] will be remembered, planted the emblems of Ma[illegible] in the most northerly point of the earth ever re[illegible] by man, offered, as soon as the Lodge should be [illegible] tuted, to present to them this figure-head, tog[illegible] with other interesting relics connected with the D[illegible] tor's Arctic and other expeditions. Agreeably t[illegible] promise it has been forwarded by the family, and [illegible] be seen for a few days at the Mercantile Li[illegible] whence it will soon be removed to the rooms of [illegible] Lodge. It bears upon it the marks of the st[illegible] scenes through which it has passed.

THE PENALTY OF GREATNESS.—One of the [illegible] cidents of becoming great or celebrated in this co[illegible] try, is that of being written to on full sheets of [illegible] cap, by all sorts of persons, on all kinds of sub[illegible] Mr. CYRUS W. FIELD, in conversation with a [illegible] yesterday, stated that upon his arrival from Ca[illegible] where he has lately been upon business, he f[illegible] more than a bushel of letters—several thousa[illegible] awaiting answers. Many of them from friends, [illegible] most from persons from distant parts of the cou[illegible] making inquiries about all sorts of matters, and [illegible] gestions and queries on all subjects within the ra[illegible] earth, air, and sea. Some assuming that he must [illegible] become suddenly rich, and asking for donations to [illegible] vorite projects, ad infinitum. Others merely ask[illegible] for his autograph. Hundreds of these letters rem[illegible] unread as yet, the state of his business, and the p[illegible] sure upon his time rendering it impossible for him [illegible] even read, much less to reply to them. He expres[illegible] the hope that those of his friends who did not rece[illegible] immediate answers to their favors, would not co[illegible] strue his silence into intentional neglect, but refer [illegible] to the real cause, the difficulty of replying to such [illegible] voluminous correspondence all at once.

THE SUSPECTED MURDER OF MRS. STEVENS.—Coroner CONNERY, accompanied by the Misses B[illegible] proceeded to Bellevue Hospital yesterday, for [illegible] purpose of holding an inquest upon the body of M[illegible] Sophia Stevens, who, it is alleged, was fatally p[illegible] soned by her husband 12 months ago. The body [illegible] identified by the Misses Bell, after which it was gi[illegible] in charge of Dr. Wood, who made a post mortem [illegible] amination in presence of Professor Doremus, Drs. [illegible] W. Woodward, W. Gurley, Chas. Phelps and oth[illegible] The body was found in a remarkable state of pres[illegible] ation, the only portion that had become decompo[illegible] being the face and brains. No marks of violence [illegible] any kind were found upon it. The internal org[illegible] were placed in charge of Professor Doremus for [illegible] lyzation, who will be able to report in the course of a few days. Coroner CONNERY was engaged yeste[illegible] afternoon in looking up witnesses, and will to-day, at 10 A. M., begin taking testimony at the Hospital.

NEW COUNTERFEIT.—Counterfeit bills, of the denomination of $2, on the Manufacturers' Bank of Rochester, are in circulation.

Dr. LEWIS A. SAYRE, who has been suffering badly from the inflammation consequent on a dissection wound, is recovering.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—JOHN TARPY, a young man, lately residing at No. 177 East Twenty-second-street, died on Friday, from the effects of a fall on Wed[illegible] day night, from a hay-loft, he having struck upon a feed-box and ruptured some of his internal organs. An inquest will be held upon the body to-day.

John Kelly and Judge O'Connor.

LETTER FROM JUDGE O'CONNOR.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

An article in the Tribune of yesterday, so totally misrepresents my position with reference to Mr. John Kelly, that I consider myself called upon to notice it, and will correct its misstatements in as few words as possible. I have not the egotism to believe that this matter, personal to myself, is worthy the attention of the public; but since the facts have been stated in any form, they should be stated truly.

Last Fall, Mr. O'Connor's term as Judge of the Second District Court being about to expire, he sought to be reëlected for the reason that the compensation was then for the first time such as to make it an object.

For some months previous to the Election last December it was the constant charge against Mr. O'Connor, on the part of "R." and his friends in the Fourteenth Ward, that he did not reside in the district in which he held his office—although it was not at all necessary either by fact or fiction of law that he should be a resident of the district—that his claim to a residence in the Westchester House was not of a character to entitle it to the name of a house. But, nevertheless, it was Judge O'Connor's residence—his bona fide residence—where he had been the two terms he was in office, and from whence he regularly voted during the whole time he was on the Bench. Inasmuch, however, as it happened that Judge O'Connor stood in the way of the political preferment of John Kelly's bosom friend, one "who had shaped his political course," one "who had been to him all that a brother could be," he, John Kelly, and the creatures who were willing to do his bidding, had for some time previously determined that Thomas Boese should supplant Mr. O'Connor, and that he, Boese, was a proper candidate to succeed him. They wrote with prepared chalk Judge O'Connor's doom on the political wall, and for some two years before the election came on they gave, with every assurance of political foreknowledge, the title of Judge Boese to Thomas of that name.

As Mr. O'Connor had full knowledge of these preparations, and that John Kelly and friends had deposed him in favor of Mr. Boese, Mr. Meagher himself, the friend of Mr. O'Connor, penned the following article, which is now given word for word, letter for letter, as it originally appeared. It was not Mr. O'Connor's article, and Mr. O'Connor never stated that he had written it.

Before giving this article, however, it is really a very interesting thing to read from "R.'s" article the following extract, and to apply his comments, and his explanations of the conduct of Mr. Kelly, to the article itself:

"No sooner was it known," says R., "that Mr. Boese was fairly chalked for the nomination, than a very bitter, ill-timed article appeared in the editorial columns of Thomas Francis Meagher's Citizen, [meaning the Irish News,] appealing direct to the religious passions of the people. Mr. Kelly was called upon by all the ties that bound him to his Catholic Church (by this article of Mr. Meagher in the Irish News) to turn at once from Mr. Boese, the Protestant, and support Mr. O'Connor, the Catholic. This article, Mr. O'Connor freely admitted, was from his own pen. * * * It was well known at that time that Mr. Kelly regarded Mr. O'Connor as his warm personal friend, and it was also well known that throughout all Mr. Kelly's public life Mr. Boese had been to him all that a brother could be, * * * * Mr. Kelly therefore resolved to fold his arms and seal his lips, which he did, and the contest went on."

For the purpose of refuting every word of the above, and that it may appear that Mr. Kelly and his friends are without any excuse on the religious grounds on which it is said Mr. Kelly deserted his friend Mr. Boese, the article in question, in which it it said Mr. Kelly was called on, "By all the ties that bound him to his Catholic Church to turn from Mr. Boese, the Protestant," and support Mr. O'Connor, the Catholic, is now given in full—it is as follows:

"The Second Judicial District.—Our friend Judge O'Connor, in his canvass for reëlection to the Judgeship of this truly Democratic District, has met, we are delighted to state, with the warmest assurances of success. It surprises and pains us, however, to learn that the Hon. John Kelly, who owes so much to his fellow-citizens of Irish birth, exercises the influence he derives from them in favor of a candidate whose claims upon them are so strongly disputed, whilst those of Judge O'Connor are incontestable and of many years' standing. We regret this conduct on the part of Mr. Kelly infinitely more for his own sake than for any other reason, since, if persisted in, it must inevitably result to his grevious disadvantage in any contest in which he may hereafter be personally engaged. As for Judge O'Connor, no influence can beat him now. The people are with him; and, well aware and convinced of this, his friends are determined to present him to the electors of the District, with or without nomination."

Is there a word in this article about religion—about the Catholic or the Protestant? Does this article, after it is read, justify the explanation which "R." has given of the conduct of Kelly and his friends, and the reasons for their action as subsequently developed towards Mr. O'Connor?

Does John Kelly now deny that "he owes so much to his fellow-citizens of Irish birth," or does he assert that "he did not intend to exercise the influence he derived from them in favor of a candidate whose claims upon them were strongly disputed," and against one "whose claims were incontestable and of many years' standing?"

For my own part, I confess never to have dreamed of any religious element in the contest; and certainly if Mr. Boese, or any other man, had been to me "for years all that a brother could be," the mere fact of his being a Protestant would not have induced me to "fold my hands and seal my lips" in a struggle of the sort in which he was engaged. Would Mr. Kelly really wish it to go before the people that he examines all candidates on their religious faith?

The statement that Mr. Kelly was "Mr. O'Connor's warm personal friend," (so vouched on the authority of "R.") should make all the present friends of Mr. Kelly look closely to their positions. The fact is, that Mr. O'Connor had befriended Mr. Kelly, both by vote and political contributions, and looked upon him as a well-meaning man; one who, by some accident in the political intrigues of the day, had been called upon to discharge the duties of an office for which, by position in life and education, he was not qualified.

Mr. Kelly's mouth-piece says: "Mr. Boese, desiring to heal, as far as possible, the wound inflicted, accepted an invitation from Mr. O'Connor at a festive board, where, in the presence of their friends, Mr. Boese announced his withdrawal from the canvass, and gave a pledge of his support to Mr. O'Connor, which he redeemed at the ballot-box."

Mr. Boese, under the instructions he had received, intimated to Mr. O'Connor, through O'Connor's friends, that he would withdraw from the canvass, and declared that he would be happy to see Mr. O'Connor, to make his withdrawal an effectual one in O'Connor's favor. At the entertainment which Mr. O'Connor provided, Mr. Boese did voluntarily announce his withdrawal from the canvass—did announce that he himself would go on the Committee in favor of O'Connor; and did, with John Kelly's friends, Alderman Tuomey and John H. Chambers, then present, assert that they would secure on the Conventional delegation from the Fourteenth Ward, Mr. O'Connor's friends alone, several of whom were then named. Every pledge then given in presence of witnesses, these gentlemen afterwards deliberately violated.

Mr. O'Connor does not know, but it really is a matter of great consolation for him now to learn, from the communication of "R.," that Mr. Boese, out of the crowd of Mr. Kelly's friends, did so nobly redeem his pledges to him, and did give him the support of his single vote at the ballot-box.

To secure a regular nomination, at the time in question, in favor of a candidate against O'Connor—to put in force all the political power which could be wielded by Kelly, who was then Thane of Cawdor, and was to be Sheriff thereafter—this was the game which was only to be played successfully by springing a surprise on O'Connor and his friends. Hence the proffers of alliance and support from a candidate withdrawn under the ostensible excuse of making no disturbance among Kelly's "friends of Irish birth," by allowing them to canvass the merits of John Kelly's candidate, against an old friend; and hence the abuse of the rights of hospitality, and the violation of pledges given with the solemnity of every attribute upheld as honor among mankind. Mr. O'Connor was the regular candidate of the District, but it did not suit the Fourteenth Ward, under the lead of John Kelly, so to [illegible] him; it refused to take his ticket. He obtained majorities in the two other Wards, the Fourth and [illegible], but not enough to counteract the voting of the Fourteenth.

There is some explanation given herein of the course pursued towards Mr. O'Connor by Mr. Kelly's friends. It would more than puzzle a philosopher to understand how, "in this matter, Mr. Kelly's conduct was entitled to the respect of every true friend of the institutions of our country, be his religious faith what it may."

The Fourteenth Ward delegation to the Nominating Convention was packed with Custom-house officers, who owed their appointments to Kelly, and received from him all political instructions. These men were in this way made adverse to Mr. O'Connor, and when so packed and "regulated," Mr. Kelly in person called on Mr. Schell with a request that he, as Col[illegible], would not interfere in O'Connor's favor. Whether such conduct as this should entitle any man to the respect of "all true friends of the institutions of our country," is a question which we must leave to "R." and other great authorities on political ethics. The friends of Mr. Kelly will find they were no [illegible] to disturb this matter, nor will it do for him at this late hour to pretend that he stood neutral in this contest, whereas not long since it was his boast that "he had defeated O'Connor and helped to elect a gentleman as Judge of the Second District Court."

B. O'CONNOR.

Fires.

East Thirteenth-street.—At 6¼ o'clock, on Friday evening, a fire broke out in the stable in the rear of No. 213 East Thirteenth-street, owned by Pat[illegible] Regan, and occupied by Thomas Riley, who had four horses in it at the discovery of the fire; but, fortunately, they were rescued before the flames made much progress. The total damage will amount to [illegible] which there is no insurance. The flames of the above fire communicated to the [illegible] owned by Bernard Riley, in the rear of No. [illegible]-avenue. Damage, $25; insured far $2,000 in the Peter Cooper Insurance Company.

[illegible]-street.—Shortly before 9 o'clock, on [illegible], a fire occurred in the unoccupied stable [illegible]. It is owned by Mrs. Bogan [illegible] to a trifling extent.

CITY POLITICS.

Republican Congressional Conventions.

Third District.—The Republican Congressional Convention for the Third District,—embracing the First, Second, Third, Fifth and Eighth Wards,—met last evening at the Fifth Ward Hotel, corner of Franklin-street and West Broadway. C. F. Randolph, of the Fifth Ward, was chosen Chairman, and John J. Shaw, of the Eighth Ward, and Emmons Clark, of the Third Ward, Secretaries. Contesting delegations appeared from the First, Third and Eighth Wards, and their differences were referred to a Committee on Credentials, consisting of James H. Welsh, of the Second Ward; James M. Tuthill and Nathaniel Kingsley, senior, of the Fifth Ward.

The Committee reported in favor of the "regular" delegations from each Ward.

The report was adopted.

Mr. William H. Albertson, of the Eighth Ward, moved the appointment of a Committee of one from each Ward, "to confer with the opponents of the present Federal Administration in regard to a candidate from the Third District."

The motion was declared adopted, without dissent, and the Chairman appointed as such Committee John J. Silcox, Eighth Ward; James M. Tuthill, Fifth Ward; Sheridan Shook, Third Ward; J. H. Welsh, Second Ward; and C. F. E. Leuder, First Ward.

Mr. Albertson then moved an informal ballot for a candidate, that the Committee of Conference might learn who was the favorite of the Convention.

Justice Welsh opposed this motion, and moved, as a substitute, that the Convention adjourn to Friday, the 1st October, at the same hour and place.

After some debate, this motion was carried, and the Committee adjourned.

Fourth District.—The Delegates to the Congressional Convention met at No. 223 Centre-street, last night, and organized by the appointment of A. Bont, Esq., of the Fourteenth Ward to the Chair, and T. P. Kelly, Secretary. The subject of the contested seats in the Sixth Ward were settled by the unanimous admission of the ticket known as the "Brennan Ticket." The Convention adjourned with a view to a fusion with the Americans.

Fifth District.—The Congressional Convention in this District met at No. 68 East Broadway, with Daniel Manger, Esq., in the Chair, and David H. Gildersleeve, Esq., acting as Secretary. A host of nominations were made, and many of them subsequently withdrawn. The following Committee of Conference was appointed with a view to a fusion with the American Party: D. L. Peltz, Robert Murray, Enness Elliott, Benj. Hutchinson, George C. Bennett, Samuel T. Mattocks, John W. Hanford, Anthony Walter. The Convention adjourned to meet at the call of the Committee of Conference.

Sixth District.—The Republican Congressional Convention for the Sixth District, which is composed of the Eleventh, Fifteenth and Nineteenth Wards, met last evening, at No. 618 Broadway. There were four sets of Delegates from the Eleventh Ward, and nearly the whole evening was spent in settling the question as to which was the regular delegation. The matter finally was placed in the hands of the rival claimants, who speedily settled the matter by a compromise. An expression of opinion was had, from which it is inferred that the Americans and Republicans of the District will unite on a candidate to run against the Hon. John Cochrane, the Democratic nominee. A Committee of two Delegates from each Ward in the District was appointed to confer with the American Congressional Convention, which meets early next week, with reference to a fusion, and great confidence is felt that it will be attained and the candidate elected. Joseph B. Varnum, of the Fifteenth Ward, Ex-Speaker of Assembly, is spoken of as the most likely candidate, in case of fusion. Thos. Little, an architect, of the Seventeenth Ward, also appears to be a favorite. The Convention was enthusiastic and harmonious. It adjourned to Thursday evening next, when, doubtless, the nominations will be made.

Seventh District.—The Congressional Election was to have taken place last night. At the appointed hour, the Delegates from the Ninth, Sixteenth and Twentieth Wards assembled, and remained in deliberation nearly three hours. They could not agree on their candidate, and finally adjourned to meet again next Friday night, at the same place.

Republican Assembly Conventions.

First District.—No nomination was made in this district last night. The Convention met, and adjourned, to meet this (Saturday) evening at No. 19 Beekman-street.

Second District.—The delegates met at the Republican Head-quarters, in William-street, and adjourned without making a nomination.

Third District.—No nomination was made in this district. The Convention adjourned to consult with the Americans, with a view to a fusion.

Fourth District.—The Convention in the Fourth Assembly District met at No. 68 East Broadway. Lewis Hopps, Esq., was in the Chair, and George Terwilliger, Esq., acted as Secretary. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to confer with the Americans with a view to a fusion: L. W. Neville, T. C. Thornton, Daniel B. Dwyer, Lewis Hopps, and George Terwilliger.

Fifth Assembly District.—The election will take place to-night at the Bleecker Building, corner of Morton and Bleecker streets.

Sixth District.—On account of a misunderstanding with regard to the time appointed for the meeting, the delegates to the Assembly Convention in this District agreed to meet the next (this) evening, at No. 274 Grand-street.

Seventh Assembly District.—The election will take place to-night, at Chelsea Hall, corner of Eighth-avenue and Sixteenth-street.

Tenth District.—The Convention met last evening, at No. 618 Broadway, but transacted no business. They adjourned to meet next Tuesday evening at the Bowery Hotel.

Police Intelligence.

The Fourth Ward Wife-Murder.—The inquisition in the case of Mrs. Mary McIntyre, who was murdered by her husband, Michael McIntyre, on Thursday morning, at No. 62 James-street, came off yesterday, at the New-York Hospital, before Coroner Hills. The evidence adduced showed that McIntyre caught his wife in the act of adultery with a man named Michael J. O'Keefe, under a table, in the rear of the above-named premises, and in the excitement of the moment he broke a leg from the table and struck them several powerful blows with it. O'Keefe escaped with some severe wounds upon the head, but the woman had her skull fractured, and died soon after of compression of the brain.

O'Keefe, in his examination yesterday, stated that he was partially intoxicated, when he saw Mrs. McIntyre lying under the table, apparently asleep and intoxicated. He lay down beside her, with an evil intention, but had not accomplished his object, when her husband commenced the assault upon them. He had been lying beside the woman some seven minutes, as near as he could recollect, before McIntyre came to them. McIntyre struck him several times upon the head with the table leg, and he also struck the woman repeatedly with it, both before and after she got up.

Peter Farmer, a room-mate of McIntyre, testified that when they heard the noise in the yard, he and McIntyre both went down and found the woman and O'Keefe in the situation above mentioned. Witness went for a light, and on his return met McIntyre, who told him that he had murdered both of them. The house where the scene occurred, he stated, had a bad reputation.

Dr. John W. Harker, of the New-York Hospital testified that Mrs. McIntyre died of congestion of the brain, caused by an extensive fracture of the base of the skull.

Inspector Dowling, of the Sixth Ward Police, testified that McIntyre called at his Station-house and surrendered himself.

The case was then given to the Jury, who rendered a verdict:

"That deceased came to her death by compression of the brain, from fracture of the skull, received at the hands of Michael McIntyre."

The prisoner stated that he is 42 years of age, born in Ireland, and is a junk-shop dealer. In relation to the charge against him, he said: "I saw a man in the arms of my wife, and got so excited that I don't know what I did."

He was committed to the tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury.

False Pretences.—Officer Slater, of the lower Police Court, yesterday arrested Isaac A. Biggs, Adna H. Southwick and Caleb M. Travis, who represent themselves as agents and real-estate brokers, on three several complaints of obtaining money by false representations. Affidavits were made by Francis P. Herrington, who alleges that he suffered to the extent of $500; John Johnson swears that he is minus $150; and Robert Hawkins testified that his connection with the defendants resulted in the loss of $350. The prisoners were taken before Justice Welsh, at the City Hall, who discharged them on their own recognizance, as each of them was already under bail in a civil suit.

PARENTS AND OTHERS WILL FIND the most happy effects resulting from the use of WING'S FARINA CRACKERS.

They are acknowledged to be one of the most healthful articles of food ever produced, and they are now used by numerous families with great advantage.

One pound of WING'S CRACKERS is estimated to contain as much nourishment as two pounds of bread.

Those who use WING'S CRACKERS regularly find them UNEQUALED FOR THEIR INVIGORATING POWER, not only in aiding the action of the stomach, but in restoring those forces of the system which have become reduced by disease or mental and physical labor.

Eminent Physicians recommend their use as a valuable food in sickness as well as health, and especially for children.

THEY ARE EXTENSIVELY USED, in cases where nourishment is required free from all feverish tendency, and are found to be peculiarly suitable for the young and feeble.

Many Ladies speak of them in the highest terms as a delicacy which every family should be supplied with, not only on account of their excellence as a nourishment and
but as an article of every day use, to a greater or less extent, on account of their great value in maintaining a healthful tone of the system, which is indispensable to that natural beauty and cheerful state of mind, so desirable.

All those who may wish to procure these valuable Crackers, should understand that there are no genuine Farina Crackers made but by Mr. Wing; all these are stamped with the name "A. WING." Allow no person, therefore, to persuade you to buy any Crackers for Farina but WING'S.

This caution has become necessary, in consequence of an attempt by designing persons to sell the ordinary kind of Crackers by calling them Farina, and conveying the impression that they are like WING'S FARINA. Such attempts at deception should be understood by all.

WING'S FARINA CRACKERS may be procured of the best family grocers generally, by whom they are extensively sold in different portions of the United States, and at wholesale only of

The publishers desire to call the attention of the trade and the critics to Mr. Pepper's first collection, in book form. Originally written for the pages of the Knickerbocker Magazine, the majority of these papers have gone the rounds of the best newspapers, both in this country and in England. America is rich in specimens of humor but we question whether it has yet produced anything equal to these lucubrations of the immortal Pepper. Like the spicy aroma of the pungent tree whose name he bears, the wit of Pepper is his own. Other humorists may produce a momentary burst of laughter by their caricatures, but Pepper does more: he makes his readers roar when they read him and smile in their sleeves a long time after. Purists in English may object to his spelling; even the disciples of Webster may occasionally think him a little loose in his orthography; but he fears them not. Before his advent there were but two acknowledged masters of bad spelling in English literature, Hood and Thackeray. Hood is beyond all praise in this respect, as almost any page in his "Own" will show; but Thackeray, in the opinion of the best critics, is often forced and artificial. He sets to work deliberately in "The Yellow Plush Papers" to spell badly; but he often spells too badly, the malice prepense is visible. The reader sees at once that he is not an ignorant man trying to spell correctly, but an educated man trying to spell ignorantly. Mr. Pepper is the reverse of this, or what is the same thing, seems so, and in the matter of good bad spelling, is worthy of a place by the side of Hood.

Lewis Gaylord Clark, of the Knickerbocker, says: "The bones of those who have exploded in the perusal of the verses of K. N. Pepper, whiten the soil of the United States, from the Rocky Mountains on the east, to the extreme west. 'A noad to the Grek Slaiv' is as immortal as the Statoo which inspired it."

With these few preliminary words the publishers commend Mr. Pepper's prose and poetry to the consideration of the world.

This book will be sent by mail, postage paid, to any part of the United States, on receipt of the price, $1.

From the Chicago Journal.

As the New-York correspondent of the Boston Transcript enthusiastically writes, "The elegiac composition, the exquisite sonnet, the genuine pastoral, the war-song and rural hymn, whose cadences are as remembered music, and the couplets whose chime rings out from the depths of the heart; whatever the old English dramatists, the ode writers of the reign of Anne and Charles, the purest disciples of heroic verse, the Lakists, the Byronic school—Wordsworth and Dryden, Mrs. Hemans and Scott, Shakespeare and Hartley Coleridge have made precious to soul and sense, are herein brought together; and more than this—the many isolated single notes, whose lingering harmony embalms their author's name, with the numerous fugitive 'brilliants,' heretofore of unknown parentage, cut from newspapers for the last half century—the deep, soulful utterances of heroes and mourners, lovers and exiles, devotees of nature and worshipers of art—are here elegantly garnered and chronicled."

It is just such a volume as a man may give to a woman, albeit that woman is his mother, his sister, or his wife, and is richly worth the place it claims on a lower shelf within arm's length, in the most select library."

MOUNT WASHINGTON COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE, No. 218 4th-st., (entrance No. 154 Macdougal-st.,) on Washington-square, opened its Sixteenth Academic year on Monday, Sept. 13, 1858.

This is a Private High School, furnishing the pupil with a solid and finished education. Numerous counting-houses of this City, as well as many colleges, can testify to the thoroughness with which pupils of this Institution have, during the past fifteen years, completed their academic course. The location is unsurpassed. The Principals, who devote themselves to supervision and instruction, erected and arranged the building expressly for the institution. They employ ten accomplished professors and teachers.

The rooms and furniture have been thoroughly renovated, and a stage is employed daily to convey small boys at a distance to and from the school.

Students preparing for the Sophomore Class of College have just commenced the Freshmen Course. Classes in Surveying and higher Mathematics generally, are in process of formation. Those in French, German, Spanish, Book-keeping, Commercial Arithmetic, Penmanship, Drawing and Painting are already arranged.

One of the Principals takes special charge of the younger scholars, who are received under superior advantages at seven years of age. An effectual method for acquiring a correct use of English and of eradicating all errors in spelling is in successful operation.

The building is well ventilated throughout, and pupils of all the departments enjoy at the recesses, cheerful open-air exercise in the retired playground of Washington-square.

Parents are particularly invited to visit this unique establishment during its daily sessions, and witness the character and mode of the instruction imparted. Circulars procured at the Institute and at the Broadway bookstores contain full particulars. Acquaintances of its present patrons are referred to them for reliable information.

BURLINGTON AND MISSOURI RIVER RAILROAD COMPANY'S LAND AND ROAD MORTGAGE BONDS.—Sealed proposals will be received by this Company at their office, No. 48 City Exchange, Boston, up to the 1st day of October next, at 1 o'clock, P. M., for a loan of five hundred thousand dollars, ($500,000,) in money, payable as follows:

10—Ten per cent. on the 5th day of October next, which first installment the Company will retain, without issuing Bonds therefor until the last installment is paid.
20—Twenty per cent. on the first day of November next.
20—Twenty per cent. on the 1st day of December next.
10—Ten per cent. on the first day of January, 1859.
10—Ten per cent. on the 1st day of February, 1859.
10—Ten per cent. on the 1st day of March, 1859.
10—Ten per cent. on the 1st day of April, 1859.
10—Ten per cent. on the 1st day of May, 1859.

For each installment, except the first, Bonds will be issued, with proper adjustment of interest, when payments are made; or payments may be made earlier by notifying the Treasurer of the Company thereof, at the time when the first payment is made.

The Construction Bonds now offered are in sums of $500 and $1,000 each, to be dated Oct. 1, 1858, having twenty-five years to run, bearing 8 per cent. interest, payable semi-annually in New-York, being part of an issue of one million dollars which may be made, and secured by a first mortgage and trust deed to John M. Forbes, Henry P. Kidder, and John N. A. Griswold, Trustees, of 40 miles of railroad and its appurtenances, and more than 200,000 acres of valuable land in Iowa, covering also the first section of 35 miles of road from Burlington to Skunk River, which section is subject to liens amounting to $650,000. The proceeds of the lands constitute a sinking fund for the purchase and extinguishment of these Bonds; and by the terms of said mortgage and trust deed they are receivable at par in payment for any of said lands.

This issue will secure the completion of the Road to Ottumwa, in the Des Moines Valley, (a central point for the business of Southern and Western Iowa,) early next year.

Further information may be obtained at the office of the Company, or from its late report.

Other things being equal, a preference will be given to the smaller bids made by our stockholders, who are especially invited to share in the loan, the Company reserving to themselves the right to consider the responsibility of the parties making the proposals, as well as the rate offered. With these exceptions, they will award the loan pro rata to the highest bidder.

Office New-York and Erie Railroad Co.,
New-York, June 11, 1858.

THE NEW-YORK AND ERIE RAILROAD Company have earnestly endeavored during the past ten months to establish and maintain uniform and remunerative rates of traffic by the four great lines which connect the Atlantic cities and the West. Having failed in this, and believing it to be injudicious and improper to influence traffic by the issue of free passes, by the employment of runners and solicitors, or by any other underhanded means, the Company, rather than resort to such means, have determined to reduce the fares, on and after MONDAY NEXT, 14th inst., as follows: between

New-York and Dunkirk, to....................$8 10
New-York and Buffalo, to....................5 00
New-York and Niagara Falls, or Suspension Bridge, to....................5 00

TRIESEMAR No. 1 is a remedy for relaxation, spermatorrhea, and exhaustion of the system. TRIESEMAR No. 2 effectually, in the short space of three days, completely and entirely eradicates all traces of those disorders which copavia and cubebs have so long been thought an antidote for, to the ruin of the health of a vast portion of the population. TRIESEMAR No. 3 is a great Continental remedy for that class of disorders which, unfortunately, the English physician treats with mercury, to the inevitable destruction of the patient's constitution, and which all the sarsaparilla in the world cannot remove. TRIESEMAR Nos. 1, 2 and 3 are alike devoid of taste or smell, and of all nauseating qualities. They may lie on the toilet table without their use being suspected. M., at No. 459 Broome-st., second block west of Broadway.

Anatomical plates of a superior kind, and drawings of every form of disease. Price $1, post paid. RICORD'S, VELPEAU'S, CIVIALE'S, ACTON'S, CURLING'S, and the Venereal Hospital Practice, of Paris and London, by Dr. LARMONT. As some persons afflicted with Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, Primary and Constitutional Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Seminal Emissions, Impotency, &c., may not be aware of the fact, he takes this medium of informing them that he is the only graduate in this City who is exclusively treating and curing those diseases, and whose connection with the European hospitals enables him to adopt the latest and most radical treatment, curing the oldest and most severe cases, at No. 82 Mercer-st., corner of Spring, opposite St. Nicholas Hotel, from 10 A. M. till 9 P. M., except Sundays, unless by appointment. The Doctor's MEDICAL ADVISER AND MARRIAGE GUIDE, nearly 400 pages, 100 picture illustrations, is $1. Sold and mailed, also, by J. W. JUDD, No. 222 Broadway, New-York. It gives the advertised medicines, and should be seen by the married, single and the afflicted, before adopting any treatment, as it fully exposes the charlatans infesting this and other cities.

DR. MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL OR ELIXIR OF LOVE.—This delightful and positive invigorant of the human system is fast superseding all other remedies; in fact, when its virtues become fully known, it will be the only remedy in use. Its action on the nervous system and reproductive organs is most extraordinary, allaying all over-excitement, and infusing into the nervous organization that degree of tension which is requisite to give the human system the enjoyment of its full powers, both mentally and physically. As an appetizer it is equally remarkable; assimilated with the gastric juices of the stomach, it assists them in more readily dissolving all nutritious substances, and converting them into pure and wholesome blood; thus the digestion is improved, and the whole framework of man moves on in a more vigorous and harmonious manner thereby. Price $3 per bottle, or two bottles for $5. Principal office No. 203 Fulton-st., New-York.

Trial of General Tallmadge.

Yesterday the trial of General-Superintendent Tallmadge was resumed before the Police Commissioners, General NYE, Chairman of the Board, presided.

The first witness sworn was J. C. Rich, senior officer of the Marine Corps on the Sabine. He testified that on the 2d of September, about four o'clock in the afternoon, when on board the vessel, he received orders from the commandant (Kearney) of the naval station in regard to the protection of the property at Quarantine; the orders were signed by Captain Lutz, and were to the effect that witness should take charge of all the marines on the Sabine that could be spared from the ship, and those who were sent down by steamer from the Navy-Yard, and to proceed to the Quarantine at Staten Island to protect the Government property; within twenty minutes after the order had been received the troops were ready to proceed to Quarantine, and went there immediately; fifty muskets in all was the amount of the force landed; witness saw Mr. Hart, Surveyor of the Port, Mr. Locke, the boarding officer, and others present at the Quarantine grounds, and asked what he was to do and what was the property to be protected; with those gentlemen he passed around inside the walls inclosing what he was told was the Government property immediately after this he posted ten sentinels, two of them in front of Mr. Locke's house, and another at the back entrance, and one on the boundary between the State and Government property, with orders that no persons should be permitted to pass them without either a verbal order or a written countersign from him, (the witness;) in addition to this, either he himself or one of his lieutenants had a constant patrol from dark till daylight; he received no verbal orders pointing out the property he was to protect; there was no one there who gave him any such information, beyond stating the bounds within which the property was contained; there was no disturbance at Quarantine at the time the marines arrived there; soon after he had posted the sentinels, aware that several of the houses which had been threatened were so near the Government property that if set on fire they would endanger it very much, he deemed it his duty to go and see the extent of the danger, and he did so; looking out of the gate, he saw at a casual glance a crowd of about 150 men, standing perfectly quiet and noiseless; they apparently had come there more to look on at something to be done than to take part in it; from half past ten to eleven the disturbance commenced; he went down again when the fire took place, having been informed that the sick were being burned up in the hospitals; he saw about fifty men within the walls; he then ordered out ten marines; when he arrived at the hospital, he ascertained by actual observation that there was neither a sick person, nor a dead body, nor anybody, within the walls.

Cross-examined by Gen. Nye—Have been in the United States service nearly 25 years; the marines, when on board ship, belong to the United States Navy, according to the Naval regulations; connected with the Army, they are under the Army regulations; the fire towards the east part of it was within from 20 to 25 feet of the sentinels; I saw the hospital set on fire when I went down to see whether any sick were in it; the Marines were then within the hospital grounds, and could have arrived at the spot where the hospital was within one minute before the hospitals were fired; I was applied to by Dr. Bissell to send a force of my men to protect them, but declined; I declined also to Dr. Walser and I think also to Dr. Walser; Dr. Walser did not appeal to me on the score of humanity to step in and save those buildings; Ray Tompkins was the only person who made such an appeal to me; I declined to all on the ground that it was not in my power to do so under my orders; I did not change the position of my sentinels during the burning of the buildings; the nearest building that was burned was within one minute's walk of the sentinel's position; I had no conversation with any other Government official as to my duty being confined solely to protecting the Government property; I do not know that I was obliged by statute to protect all that Quarantine property; I only look to my orders, I do not come here as a lawyer; I consider that my order not only did not embrace the protecting of the whole property, but positively prevented it; it was clear and explicit, and simply this: "You will protect the Government property;" I do not think we would have had any difficulty in protecting the property burned if we had tried, but it would have been at a loss of life on both sides, and death to me undoubtedly; my military education prevailed over my humanity.

To Mr. Noyes—I did not protect the State property, because it was excluded from my orders; if that had formed part of my orders, I should have protected it at any cost; the first intimation that I had that the State property was about to be attacked was at 10 o'clock at night; I received a message from a person outside whom, at that time, I knew not, asking me to go out and see him on very important business; I sent out, by way of answer, a statement that I could not see any one outside of the Quarantine walls, but that he could see me next morning at ten o'clock, and I sent out a pass for that purpose; that pass was refused by Dr. Thompson's people when presented next morning; it was perfectly well understood within the wall that the Hospital was going to be burned; Ray Tompkins has told me since that time that it was he who sent me the message that night, and the man who brought the message told me the same thing; I did not see Ray Tompkins that night nor the next day, and did not know him at all; I say that it was he who appealed to me to save the Hospital, because he has since said so to me; I did not know him then, and cannot say so of my own knowledge; I was through the Hospital when it was being fired, and saw that all the patients had been moved out; I brought the marines there with the intention, if the life of the patients should be endangered, to assume a power which I knew my orders did not warrant.

John McClenachan, sworn and examined by Mr. Noyes.—I am reporter for the New-York Herald; went to Staten Island by the 8 o'clock boat on the morning after the fire; went to the Quarantine grounds and saw that the buildings were all burnt down; there were no rioters there then; remained there all the day, and came up in the 6 o'clock boat in the evening; there were no rioters whatever at Quarantine during the day.

Morris De Camp, Police Captain of the Fourth Precinct, first heard of the burning of the Quarantine from reading the newspapers; came up between seven and eight o'clock to the Deputy-Superintendent's office, and told him that he supposed, as the State property had been destroyed on Staten Island, they would require a police force there; he said, No, they did not; I spoke to him on the subject because I wanted to leave town that afternoon; we concluded that there was no use of sending a police force there, as I took it for granted that the whole of the State property was destroyed.

Samuel Brevoort, the General Superintendent's Special Aid, deposed that his office adjoins that of the General Superintendent; that about eight o'clock on the morning of the 2d, he first learned of the fire from the newspapers; came to the office between eight and nine, and found neither the General nor the Deputy-Superintendent present; think the Deputy came first, and between nine and ten o'clock; first knew of the General's arrival by hearing him in his office; he remained there till twelve o'clock when he and the Deputy went out for lunch; he returned in about twenty minutes and remained in his office till about two o'clock; he then called me and said he was going to the Mechanics' Bank in Wall-street, to take up a note; he returned to his office between half-past three and four o'clock and remained here until he left the office in the evening; when he left I have no precise means of ascertaining, but I was of opinion it was at six o'clock, though now I am inclined to think it was about half-past five o'clock; we then left and he went home; when he returned from Wall-street I told him that a letter had come from the Mayor to General Nye, and that the messenger told me that he (General Tallmadge) had permission to open it; the messenger did not leave the letter, and I did not see what it contained; the General told me he was waiting in expectation of a requisition from the Commissioners of Emigration; he asked me several times during the day, both after and before his receiving General Nye's note, if the requisition had arrived; after General Nye's note he expected a requisition only from the Commissioners of Emigration; after coming from Wall-street he waited for a requisition until beyond the time when he had appointed to meet Mr. Reynolds and others, to see the Fourth-avenue Railroad tunnel; he at last said that Mr. Reynolds would be losing patience, and he had better go and see him; Mr. Tallmadge said nothing that day of not sending men to Quarantine on account of yellow fever; he said he would send them when the requisition came; I asked him to permit me to be one of the party; he said he would, and he would go too, for he would not send his men where he would not go himself; the distance from the door of Mr. Tallmadge's office to the desk of Mr. Bowen, one of the clerks here, is nineteen paces; I suppose my pace is about three feet in length; the entire distance is somewhere about fifty feet.

Cross-examined by General Nye—Gen. Tallmadge, in conversation with you on the second day after the burning, said he did not care for himself, but would not like to sacrifice sixty men; he spoke to you of what calamities might follow, if sixty men had been sent to Quarantine, and brought back the fever and spread it through the City; General Nye may have replied that they were not to consider the consequences when their duty was clear before them.

Sergeant Allen testified that on the morning of the 2d he asked the General-Superintendent if his services would be required at Quarantine, and the General told him he would send him there if any force should be ordered out; the General said he expected the proper authorities to move in the matter; at four o'clock in the afternoon Sergeant Waterbury told witness that an order had been given by General Nye or somebody else, to send men down to Quarantine; that order was understood to be informal, and no one was disposed to act without more positive instructions.

Board of Councilmen.

The Board of Councilmen met last evening, President MASWELL in the Chair.

A petition was received and referred to have several suits against the City compromised.

The following resolution was offered and laid over:

Resolved, That the Street Commissioner be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed, forthwith, to cause the rails of the Ninth-avenue Railroad Company, now laid at the intersection of Washington and Bethune streets, to be taken up, the bridges to be taken away, and the intersections repaved in such a manner that the surface water and filth will flow off toward the North River without obstruction.

The following was received from the Street Commissioner, and ordered to be printed.

STREET DEPARTMENT, NEW-YORK, Sept. 20, 1858.

To the Honorable Board of Councilmen:

GENTS: On the 5th day of August, 1858, I transmitted to your honorable Body an abstract of estimates and award of contract to JOHN BOWEN, for flagging the sidewalks on the east side of Hudson-street and west side of Varick-street, between Beach and Laight streets, and south side of Laight-street and north side of Beach-street, between Hudson and Varick streets; which award had been made on opening of bids for the work, on July 31, 1858, in pursuance of an ordinance directing the same to be done, approved by the Mayor Dec. 15, 1856, and due advertisement thereof in all the Corporation papers.

The ordinance for the work was passed by the Board of Councilmen on June 12, 1855, and by the Board of Aldermen on Dec. 11, 1856, and was approved by his Honor the Mayor as above stated, but having been acted upon previous to the passage of the Charter of 1857, which requires that any act or resolution, to be valid, must receive the assent of both Boards within the same year, I advertised the work for contract.

Since that date, however, my attention has been called to the decision of the Supreme Court of this State in the matter of the Ninth-avenue Railroad, as reported in Barbour's Reports, vol. 22, pp. 414 to 501. In that case, on a review of the powers of the Corporation to pass ordinances, the Judge (as will appear by reference to the report thereof) states in his opinion, in substance, that the Charter of 1830 declared the legislative power of the Corporation vested in a Board of Aldermen and Board of Assistants; in this they adopted, "by implication," the principle of legislative bodies consisting of two independent branches, hence a resolution adopted by the Board of Assistant-Aldermen in one year cannot be concurred in by the Board of Aldermen in another year, but must be taken up de novo; and also, in another part thereof, "The Board of Aldermen in '53 could not take up and pass a resolution of the Board of Assistants of '52, authorizing the construction of a railroad in the streets, and give it effect as a law, without consulting the newly-elected body. Such a resolution is not a resolution of the Common Council."

Although this decision is in direct opposition to the principle adopted in the case of the Battery enlargement, and the course uniformly pursued in this Department, still, emanating as it does from a high judicial authority of the State, I am bound to respect it; and taken in connection with the fact that all ordinances, (hereafter to be passed,) to be valid, are required by section 11 of the amended charter of 1857, to receive the assent of both Boards within the same year, I have determined to withdraw the award of contract made by me in this case, resting upon that provision of the proposals issued by me which reserves the right to decline all proposals if deemed for the interest of the Corporation, and, also, inasmuch as I am fully satisfied in my own mind that the City treasury could not in any manner be reimbursed the amount of any expenditure incurred for this work under the aforesaid ordinance, and would, therefore, respectfully request that the award of contract, as submitted in this case, be not confirmed. Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD COOPER, Street Commissioner.

The report of the Committee in favor of confirming assessment for paving Third-avenue, between Forty-fourth and Fifty-sixth streets, with block or Belgian pavement, was adopted.

The communication from the Street Commissioner in relation to assessments collected by Joseph R. Taylor, late Collector of Assessments, came up again and was ordered to be printed.

The Street Commissioner was authorized to advertise for proposals to rebuild the City Hall.

The following resolution was adopted unanimously, in consequence of the report of defalcations at the Department of Assessments that appeared in the TIMES a few days ago:

Resolved, That the Counsel to the Corporation be, and he is hereby instructed to, commence legal proceedings forthwith against the late Collector and Deputy Collector of Assessments, for the recovery of the moneys alleged to be fraudulently retained by them.

The resolution of Alderman ADAMS, requiring the Peck Slip and Grand-street Ferry Company to comply with the terms of the Charter, was referred to the Committee on Law.

The Board then adjourned.

JOHN WOOD'S GYMNASIUM—Nos 4 and 6 East Twenty-eighth-street. Classes now forming.

LONG ISLAND.

Fair of Queens County Agricultural Society.

This annual festival, which occurred at Flushing the present week, was the most largely attended and most successful one ever held in the county, or on Long Island. Several persons who have attended exhibitions in different counties throughout the State, expressed the opinion that they had never seen so large a gathering at any county show. Much of the success which has always attended the Queens County Society has been due to the efficient and untiring labors of the long-time Secretary, JOHN HAROLD, Esq. The unusual success this year resulted from the active and enterprising character of the local Committee at Flushing, who took hold of the matter in season, with a determination to see the thing through in good shape. This Committee assumed the entire local expenses, amounting to some $800, which was raised by subscriptions among the citizens. The grounds were inclosed and well filled up with tents, horse track, stalls for animals, &c. The main tent, which was procured from Rochester, N. Y., covered an area of ten thousand square feet. Some persons opposed getting so large a tent, fearing it would show to disadvantage from being only partly filled, but in the end it proved to be too small, not only for the large display of agricultural, horticultural and manufactured products, but especially for the mass of crinoline (expanded to wider proportions than ever) which sought entertainment and shelter under the canvas.

The inclosed grounds consisted of about ten acres, on a fine elevation, with a commanding view of Flushing village and bay and of Strattonport. The main entrance to the tent was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants, including a sketch of the "Goddess of Plenty," executed by Mr. P. WINTER, Professor at FAIRCHILD'S Institute, and the Scripture motto, prettily wrought in evergreens, "Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase; so shall thy barns be filled with plenty." The inside of the large tent, the tent-poles, sides, speakers' stand, &c., were ornamented with wreaths, arches, curves, &c., made up of a profusion of flowers, evergreens and various plants. In front of the speakers' stand hung a well-executed portrait of Governor KING, who, by the way, was present, as usual, both as a general active participant in the exercises, and as an exhibitor of agricultural and horticultural products. We could not observe that his Gubernatorial honors and official residence at the capital have in the least diminished the interest we have always seen exhibited by him in the rural improvements and festivities of his home county. Within the tent we noticed a large collection of huge melons, pumpkins, squashes, cabbages, beets and other roots, with the usual display of all sorts of vegetables, grains, &c. A specimen of corn, the ears of which had 22 rows of kernels, and were so high up on the stalks as so require the assistance of a hook and ladder company at gathering time, showed not only the capabilities of some of the "wild land" in Flushing, but also that the producer was as successful in growing "tall corn" in the country as he has hitherto been in setting canvas on the tallest masts in our City harbor. This, like many other soil-products at this exhibition, was a capital illustration of the incorrectness of the slurs of the County versus the "City farmers."

To the Committee on Floral Decorations, whereof Dr. JOSEPH H. VEDDER was Chairman, and particularly to the ladies of Flushing, especial praise was due for the tastefully-arranged and extensive display of flowers and plants. Mr. GABRIEL WINTER contributed a floral temple, the gem of the occasion. The pupils of the Flushing and White Stone Public Schools exhibited some creditable specimens of their proficiency in the use of the pencil and brush. The bakers gave an earnest of what they could do for the people, as respects the staff of life, and the more tasteful things needed for weddings and other festive occasions. Mr. POPPENHAUSEN, of Strattonport, displayed a large variety of articles, showing the capabilities of India-rubber. Sewing-machines in operation opened the way for several extra bills in that line, to the decided benefit of sundry households. But we cannot enumerate the thousand and one articles of manufactured and household products on exhibition. Everybody seemed pleased with what they saw, with each other, and with themselves. The multitudes that flocked in from every part of the county, together with long trains of visitors from this City and Brooklyn, told well upon the Society's receipts, which proved to be many hundreds of dollars larger than ever before.

Outside of the tent was a fair display of animals and agricultural implements, though the chief point of attraction was the track, one-quarter mile in circumference, where the numerous horses were constantly showing off their good qualities, and not a few of which are hard to beat for speed and bottom. The well-known and excellent horses of SIMON R. BOWNE, of Flushing, were well represented.

The annual address was delivered by the Hon. D. R. FLOYD JONES, the President of the Society, and was well received. Shelton's Brass Brand, of New-York City, was present and in large numbers, and added much to the pleasure of the occasion. At the close of the exercises, the whole assembly joined in singing the doxology, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," &c., accompanied by the Band. This was done with effect. The several officers, committees, speakers, &c., were loudly cheered, and the concourse slowly and unwillingly dispersed, each one saying to his neighbor, "what a splendid time we have had."

A MOTHER SHOT BY HER SON.—A respectable colored woman named MARY ANN GREEN, residing at No. 113 Ewen-street, Eastern District, was almost instantly killed, yesterday afternoon, by a shot from a pistol in the hands of her son, about ten years old. Coroner SNELL held an inquest, when the following facts were elicited. The deceased directed a woman in the family to discharge a revolver, which had been in the house some time, and stated that she was about to sell it. The woman took the pistol into the yard as directed, and snapped it, but only one barrel was discharged. She returned to the house, and laid the pistol on a table, and went to another room for fresh caps so that she could discharge the other barrels. No one was in the room at the time, but it seems the mother and son during her absence entered the room, when the son took the pistol up, and, it is supposed, in a playful manner aimed it at his mother, supposing that it was not loaded, and pulled the trigger, when one of the caps exploded. The ball entered the left side of deceased. Just at this moment the woman who had been directed to discharge the pistol came in, and caught Mrs. GREEN as she was falling. The jury rendered a verdict exculpating the boy from blame.

NO QUORUM.—Another meeting of the Common Council was called for last night, but, as usual, a quorum of members could not be obtained. The special object of the meeting was to consider the propriety of changing the contract for water, so as to have a conduit below Baisley's Pond, instead of an open canal. The contractors propose to make the change for $135,000. The opponents of the measure say that the price asked is too much. But it will, in reality, cost no more to build the conduit than the canal, when all the difficulties of constructing such a canal as is called for by the contract in such a soil is considered.

The regular meeting of the Board will be held Monday evening next.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A boy named PATRICK FINLEY, while sitting on a fence in Bedford-street, Thursday, witnessing a game of ball, slipped off, and in doing so several splinters from the rail ran into his leg, inflicting such injuries that it is feared he will lose the use of the leg.

DROWNED IN A CISTERN.—A boy, 3 years old, was accidentally drowned in a cistern, at No. 229 Hudson-avenue, yesterday. Coroner REDDING held an inquest.

NOMINATIONS.—The Bradley wing of the Democracy have made the following nominations: In the First Assembly District, Ex-Alderman MULCAHEY; Third District, J. FRANCIS WATSON.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.—The Fire Commissioners of the Western District, at a meeting held Thursday evening, disbanded Bucket Company No. 1 and reorganized it as Crystal Hose Company No. 4.

FRIDAY, Sept. 24—P. M.

In Money negotiations the business of the day is light. The terms, on temporary loan, are quite as easy as at any time through the past Summer, and the same remark applies to first-class 30@60 days bills. The accumulation of capital in the great cities, awaiting the full restoration of trade and speculation, is still in advance of the signs of improvement shown in particular departments of business. The rates are 3@4 ₽ cent. on Stock collateral, 3½@5 ₽ cent. on short bills, and 5½@7 ₽ cent. on bills running into next season. The screw steamer sailing for England to-morrow will carry out a light mail. The Exchanges are 109⅞@110 on London; 5.12½ on Paris. There is a demand for Southern funds, sight and short date bills, in anticipation of the Cotton season, and Messrs. DUNCAN, SHERMAN & Co. advertise to buy on Charleston, Savannah, Mobile and New-Orleans, on favorable terms.

There was a fair measure of business at the Stock Exchange this forenoon, though at irregular prices. The recent heavy decline in Rock Island Shares continues to be a damper upon the Share-list, although when this stock touched 65 ₽ cent, it brought forward some large cash buyers. In the afternoon a further concession of ⅛@¼ ₽ cent. was made, on sellers' options 30@60 days. In reference to the two New-York Railway stocks, the prolonged conferences at the St. Nicholas Hotel between the four trunk lines are employed by sellers against an immediate improvement. This Convention we understand to have fully adjusted the passenger schedule, and on the freight schedule there is no remaining conflict of opinion between the Erie and Central Delegates. The session to-day is said to have been devoted to reconciling certain alterations in the freight schedule proposed by the Pennsylvania and Baltimore delegates. This will probably be satisfactorily accomplished before the final adjournment. The cash certificates of New-York Central, which are not abundant on the Street, brought 77⅞@78 at the early Board to-day. In the afternoon, the sellers for the Bear account offered time contracts down to 77½ ₽ cent., which reduced the cash sales to 77⅞@⅝ ₽ cent. Erie was steady at about 17 ₽ cent. Besides the low sales of Rock Island, among the Western shares, Michigan Central was sold down to 50⅞ ₽ cent.; making the whole decline within a few days about 5 ₽ cent. The sellers are understood to move on the recent opening of the Detroit and Milwaukee line, which work, connecting with Lake navigation at Grand Haven, on Lake Michigan, and passing from Detroit within 30 to 50 miles of the Central Road, is construed as a rival of the old line of travel. We know of no other cause to affect the stock. The Directors, we understand, are not without hope of receiving their dividends in January, first at the rate of 6 ₽ cent. ₽ annum, and then at the rate of 8 ₽ cent. ₽ annum. Active calls of Michigan Southern were made at 23@23⅛ ₽ cent., closing 22⅞, in sympathy with the weakness in the other two Western Roads referred to. A disposition was also manifested to sell Galena and Chicago at 82 ₽ cent., though the amount of this stock on the Street is too limited, and one other 4 ₽ cent. dividend in February too well assured, to authorize free operations on time. In Reading, the supply of cash stock was made easier, a day or two since, by one or more large private sales, and the price has declined from 48@48¼ ₽ cent. early in the week to 47@46⅞ ₽ cent. this afternoon, the Philadelphians being buyers again and withdrawing part of the cash certificates on this market. The new buyers of Panama, who are unquestionably strong parties, took about 1,500 shares at the advance of yesterday, 115 ₽ cent. The sellers' options, a few hundred shares, were at 114½ ₽ cent. The reaction in Pacific Mail continued, and the list of sales denotes a difference of 3 ₽ cent. from the opening price of 102 ₽ cent. The lowest price touched was 99, from which there was a final recovery to 99¼@99½ ₽ cent. The shorts in the stock have discovered that a leading Director, some days ago, realized on part of his stock at 92½ ₽ cent. The fair presumption would be that he made a good profit at this rate, and could afford to sell—not that he or his colleagues have lost confidence in the profitable working of the line. In State Stocks the business was unimportant. A few retail sales were made of Tennessee's at 90@90⅛, Memphis 84⅜@84¼, and Virginia's 93 ₽ cent. The new Federal loan was a little better, sales 103¼ ₽ cent. The Bonds of the prominent Railroads usually dealt in at the Board were steady. Illinois Central Construction Bonds 91¼ ₽ cent. each. This Company have declared a Scrip dividend to the shareholders of 5 ₽ cent., to represent $875,000 of the Construction and Free-land Bonds cancelled with the proceeds of the Land sales. Although this scrip carries no interest at present, it is, in one sense, a guaranty to the extent of 5 ₽ cent. against the future assessment of the shares. In other words, if the scrip is written off on the shares, the future assessments, cash, all told, cannot exceed $55 instead of $40.

The October interest on the 10 ₽ cents. of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Company will be paid at the office of the Company in this City.

We are requested to state that the preliminary meeting of the New-York ship-masters was held to-day on board the clipper Dreadnought in favor of remonstrating against the practice at Albany of appointing inexperienced landsmen to the offices of Harbor-master, Port-wardens, &c.

Meeting of the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad Company's Creditors and Bondholders.

At a meeting of the Creditors and Bondholders of the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad Company, held by previous notice at No. 44 Exchange-place, New-York, Sept. 24, 1858, ABRAM S. HEWITT was chosen Chairman, and JOHN KENNEDY was appointed Secretary.

After free interchange of sentiments, the following preamble and resolution were submitted and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The plan submitted by the Board of Directors of the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad Company to the Bondholders and Creditors of said Company on the 12th day of July, 1858, was acceded to by a majority of the said Bondholders and Creditors on the 2d day of September, 1858, with a condition that the stock to be issued in exchange for bonds and floating debt, under said plan, should be of a preferred character; and,

Whereas, On investigation, it appears that no stock conferring a preference can be legally issued by said Company; therefore,

Resolved, That we, the Bondholders and Creditors present, do hereby agree to accept of said plan as proposed by the Board of Directors on the said 12th day of July, 1858, and we do recommend to the Bondholders and Creditors not present that they join us in such acceptance, provided each creditor may, at his option, take an equal amount of land scrip in lieu of any or all the full-paid stock to which he would have been entitled under the plan proposed by the Directors.

Per Niagara.] LIVERPOOL, Friday evening, Sept. 10.

Consuls opened steadily this morning, and although there was subsequently a little flatness, the market was again firm at the close. The first bargains were at 97@97⅛, from which, owing to the Government broker not having made the daily purchase, which has been customary for some time past, a decline took place to 96⅞@97. Ultimately, however, the prices were 97 exactly for money, and 97⅛ for the account. The chief alteration in foreign stocks has been a further recovery in the new Turkish loan, which is now at ⅛@¾ premium. A further sum of £10,000, in Russian gold, has been taken to the Bank to-day. There was a little more demand for discount at the Bank this morning, but the supply is still good in the open market at 2½@2¾. The monthly return of the Bank of France, just published, again shows extraordinary features. The stock of bullion has experienced an increase of £1,320,000, and the total held has reached the unprecedented sum of nearly £24,000,000. In the share market generally there has been no particular alteration. Atlantic Telegraph remains at £400@£510. Red Seas, ½ to ¾ premium. The gold from New-York by the City of Washington to-day is £18,000. The Teviot also has arrived from Alexandria with the heavy portion of the Australian mail and £51,900 in gold.

Of the Money market, and the transactions in American Securities, SATTERTHWAITE says: "Our Money market continues very easy, the best bills being discounted ¼ ₽ cent. below the Bank rate; this ease of Money, and the absence of any political difficulties, has imparted increased firmness to our Stock market generally. Consols are firm at 97 for money, and 97⅛ for account. The tone of the market for American Securities is also better, more disposition being shown on the part of investors to make purchases. The holders of Stock and Bonds in the four principal lines running westward are looking forward in anxious hope to a cessation of that unseemly competition which is damaging to all interests; if fair remunerating rates can be permanently agreed upon, there would be a great increase of confidence, and doubtless many fresh investments would be made. The report of active resumption of trade on the line of the Illinois Central has given much firmness to the Stock and Bonds of that Company. We note considerable purchases at steadily improving rates, the shares closing firm at 21 dis., buyers."

The return from the Bank of England for the week ending Sept. 8 gives the following results when compared with the previous week:

Public deposits	£7,535,733	Increase	£1,707,878
Other deposits	12,267,046	Decrease	1,907,742
Rest	3,692,610	Increase	2,648
Government securities	£10,955,269	Increase	£41,888
Other securities	15,362,692	Decrease	90,632
Notes unemployed	11,758,720	Increase	522,690

The amount of notes in circulation is £20,013,560, being a decrease of £289,260, and the stock of bullion in both departments is £18,039,465, showing an increase of £242,269 when compared with the preceding return.

There is no change of importance to report in the Bullion market. There have been several arrivals of gold, including one from Russia, and they have principally been sold to the Bank, the demand for export being very limited. Silver may be considered dull of sale.

Spirit of the Trade Circulars.

WM. G. CUTTING'S NEW-YORK FLOUR AND GRAIN CIRCULAR.

NEW-YORK, Friday, Sept. 25, 1858.

FLOUR, &C.—The market for Flour has been quite animated, exhibiting increased vigor from day to day, particularly for State and Western, desirable lots of which are actively inquired for, and prices have advanced 5c.@25c. ₽ bbl. The supply is fair, with the exception of sound fresh ground lots, which are much wanted for home use. Rejected parcels are more sought after, in part for export. The local demand is the most active, the advance in prices materially checking the operations of shippers. Yesterday's business showed continued animation, closing in favor of sellers. Southern Flour is in good request, both for home use and for shipment, at buoyant prices. Canadian Flour continues firm at a slight advance from last week's figures, with a fair demand. Rye Flour is a shade lower than last week. Corn Meal is in demand.

GRAIN—The receipts of Wheat for the week past have been light, the demand moderate for common descriptions, while the better grades are scarce and in lively request at buoyant prices. Most of the Spring Wheat offered during the present month has been unsound, ranging in prices from 80c. to $1 ₽ bushel, a few cargoes of prime Milwaukee Club bringing $1 06@$1 08, mainly taken for export. A fair amount of the receipts of sound parcels have been placed in store. Western Wheat of all descriptions is coming forward more or less out of order, while the main bulk of Southern is in good condition. Yesterday's transactions were very limited, the market showing firmness, holders manifesting no disposition to realize at previous prices for prime samples. Rye is in fair demand, and is firm. Corn exhibits more activity, in part for export, without, however, material alteration in prices. There is an improvement in the condition of Western Mixed, and prices of distilling parcels are 1c.@2c. higher. Oats are buoyant and active. Barley continues to improve, and prices have rapidly advanced since our last quotations, closing at 88c.@92½c. ₽ bushel.

Freights to Liverpool for Flour close at 1s. 4½d.@1s. 6d., and 3½d.@4½d. for Grain.
